

First in home cheer

Barbecue served, followed by auction

The Salvation Army's annual auction and barbecue will take place under a large tent Saturday, Sept. 9, on the ground at 27500 Shiloh, corner of Inkster Road. Barbecue will be served from 11 a.m. to noon. Bidding begins at noon.

This year 200 new and used items donated by local businesses will go on the auction block.

Some of the items up for bid are gift certificates, various pieces of furniture, meals at some of the area's better-known restaurants, a $100 credit from a local travel agent, several 26-inch color television sets, a week vacation in a beachfront Florida condominium, motorcycles, and contributions are still coming in, said Lt. Jonathan Rich.

Proceeds from the auction go to help the Salvation Army send children to summer camp and for year-round character building programs.

The Salvation Army Farmington Hills Corps provides assistance for people in Farmington, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Novi, Southfield and Redford Township. Those in need receive food, clothing, assistance with shelter and medical needs and other services.

Cornerstone of freedom

Our Constitution, the cornerstone of our freedoms, was written to protect every American from the abuse of power by government. Without the determination to restrain the excesses of political power, our Republic will perish. Quakertown feature a crazy collection of one-man shows.

Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution urges that we study the value of public service during Constitution Week. Today's problems call for the highest character of leadership. Know your Constitution.

Presented by the Farmington Downtown Development Authority, the performance will take place at the recently completed gazebo on the north side of Grand River a half mile east of Farmington Road.

From 2-4 p.m., the show's emcees will be three Farmington men: Mitch Albom, Ken Droz and Mike Stone. Detroit Free Press sports columnist Albom, public relations executive Droz and television producer Stone are all housemates in the Farmington area.

The Farmington Downtown Development Authority is an agency of the city of Farmington charged with the economic health and vitality of the city's downtown district. Its mission is to maintain a vigorous downtown district while retaining a small-community atmosphere.
