Cassini Ensemble is next in series

Concert In The Hills presents the Cassini Ensemble at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15 as part of the recital series sponsored by the Universalist Unitarian Church of Farmington, 25301 Halsted Road.

The Cassini Ensemble is Ann Arbor area based, founded in 1979 by violinist Marla Smith and violist John Madison. The group started as a string quartet performing at the Ann Arbor Summer Arts Fair and private affairs. The ensemble began its concert series with three performances during the 1985-86 season, quickly developing a reputation for its interpretation of the music of Johannes Brahms. Each year the number of concerts in their series increases and their popularity spreads.

The Cassini Ensemble has performed with Sesame Street's Bob

McGrath, the Colla Family Mariachettes from Milan, Italy, and was in recital with the Dayton Ballet Company in October, 1988.

It had live performances at WUOM Ann Arbor, WFBE Flint, and WJR Detroit radio stations. During their 1988-89 season, the ensemble participated in several concert series throughout the Midwest.

Upcoming Concert In The Hills recitals include the Langford Singers, folk and bluegrass string artist and composer Neil Woodward, and Skylark, an acoustic trio specializing in traditional and folk music.

Tickets are $7 each or $5 for students and senior citizens. Season tickets and group discounts are available. For tickets or more information, call 478-7272.
