

Show exudes optimism

midjet's finger, a small application of imagination, could sweep the debris from our highways and gives us back the fresh, green beauty that still lives in America.

Minuzzo has a very sure hand and a sense of vision that comes across in his acrylic bridge. He also has a smaller mixed media on paper here. He's so accomplished an artist that he manages to use many layers, yet achieve a delicate texture.

FRAN AND HAL Larsen have landscapes of the Southwest; Vicki Brett has a dramatic "After the Storm"; Ingrid Capozzoli of Boston went to Cape Cod and sent four very delicate beach studies. Jane Everhart, who shows in Chicago, has "Fruit Trees."

The clarity of the many watercolors and pastels in the show is cause for wonder. There is a marked absence of computer images, cartoon figures, mockery of the modern world. What there is plenty of in this show is high-quality craftsmanship, talent and a serious reminder that nature, not only shopping malls, is out there in abundance.

Marjorie Hecht Simon, painting her own garden in Huntington Woods, in "Passageway" provides us with a reminder that art is often the medium that puts us back in touch with the landscape around us.

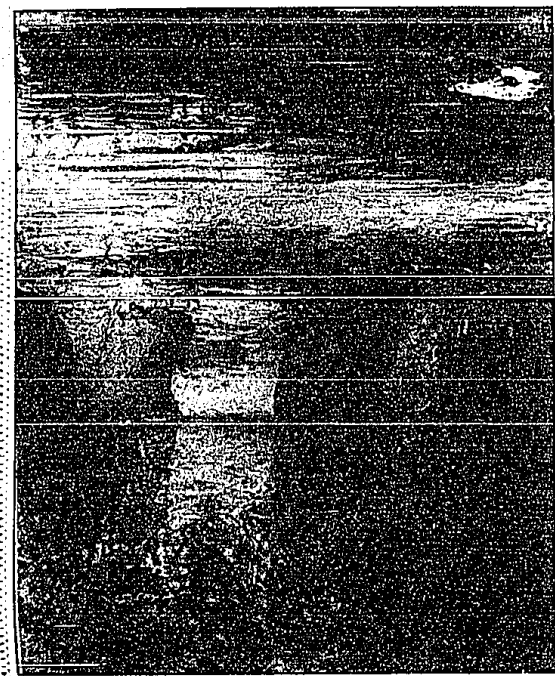

Karen Carter, Arthur Chartow, Ken Christopher, William House, Don Irwin, Joel Jaacks, Andrew Paczos, Jeanne Tennent and William Zingaro round out this sumptuous show.

The Rubiner Gallery is at 7001 Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

WHY REGISTER WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE? SIMPLE. IT'S THE LAW.

If you're a guy about to turn 18, you must register with Selective Service at the post office. The reason is simple—federal law requires it. Registering is so simple, you just fill out a card. It only takes five minutes.

Why make life difficult? Register with Selective Service. It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Tino Zago's "La Porta" is a semi-abstract view of a scorching sunset behind rocks rising out of a turbulent sea. The sea silithers between the rock formations, then stretches into the horizon.
