

Kids shows are part of cable fare

Culture for our children has been the impetus that keeps local producer, Laura Novak, producing programs.

Her three television shows this year hosted quality content and inspiration to children. Her programs were entitled "Twins, Seeing Double," "Children's Halloween Special" and "Children's Christmas Celebration."

Dinghy Sharp hosts this Christmas special lending respect and talent to the program. Sharp is a well-known Farmington School District learning consultant who is retired, yet vibrant and contributing all over the metropolitan area in cable TV.

Within the program, Dinghy tells stories and "Twas the Night Before Christmas" is told in Cajun New Orleans style. Guest Denise Nikevich lends to the talent by singing Christmas songs. Nikevich is a member of the Michigan opera. One can well understand how the children enjoy chiming in and singing the carols.

Producer Laura Novak would add to her list of thank you's, her skillful crew: Ray Kaczor, Ellen Doman, Dan Berlinger, Charlotte Ocon and Lucy Kingston. Kathy Friedrichs, MetroVision's community access coordinator, was a very helpful advisor.
