Staying power

Almost without exception, each of the fashion retail stores has a personality all of its own that pleases its customers. For say there is one major look this late fall season would be an old hat — are the days of fashion dictators over? Yet, there is one major prediction trend occurring in the first fashion season of the 1990s. There is a major softening of the fashion scene. The age-old fashion rule of "less is more" is being re-evaluated. The fashion world is looking for a new balance between the old and the new.
