

Five Farmington-area residents earned a black belt and a first ranking achieved a first-degree black belt in Choi Kwang-Do, a new martial arts form, at the Michigan Blackbelt Academy in Farmington March 10.

ERIC RICHMOND, 12, and his brother, Scott, 10, Tony Kates, 8, Bob Campbell, 27, Doug Miles, 22, rose through the ranks with white belt to black belt. Kates lives in Farmington, the others, Farmington Hills.

Lad Guest, 39, of Farmington, earned a first-degree black belt — one ranking higher than black belt. It's noted by a gold stripe and reflects a higher degree of skill.

James Myers, second-degree black belt, heads instruction for youngsters at the school, 2416 Orchard Lake Road, Rose. Eric Hennings, third-degree black belt, is the chief adult instructor.

The school practices the martial art form founded by ninth-degree black belt Grand Master Kwang Jo Choi.

THE HOUR-LONG black belt testing March 10 was thorough and fast.

The technicians had to perform the 12 forms, right and left, they learned on the way up the belt ladder.

They also had to break a board using a flying side kick, perform a four-directional break, and spar with three adult black belts.

Campbell and Miles were put through a similar kind of regimen, but at a more rigorous level. The boards, for example, were double- or triple-layered.

In addition to the continued training, all will qualify to test for first-degree black belt.

The 117 who tested for black belt on March 10 was one of the largest such groups at the school.

ERIC RICHMOND is a seventh grader at Warner Middle School, Farmington Hills. His brother, Scott, is a fifth grader at Forest Elementary, Farmington Hills. They started Choi Kwang-Do three years ago.

Bob Campbell began to study the martial art for three years. Doug Miles has studied it for 34 years.

Also earning a black belt March 10 was Tony Kates, 8, a second grader at Larkshire Elementary, Farmington Hills, and a 24-year student of the martial art. (One of the youngest to earn a black belt, he was featured in the Observer March 26).
