

'Women on the Move' makes debut on cable

Betty Schelling is a human dynamo who adores the involvement of community television.

Betty literally has been active with television throughout the state. She began as we began as she has been a resident within the Metrovision franchised area.

Her latest project is "Women on the Move." The title speaks for itself. Betty would introduce her guests, two women who have set goals for themselves and have fulfilled their dreams. It has taken them eight years to graduate from Wayne State University with their Ph.D's. They also happen to be the first black mother and daughter to graduate from Wayne State University.

Catherine is the director of Wayne County Community College and Delia is a high school teacher.

We welcome them to Community Access Television.
