Bullet Misses Victim

An unidentified lone gunman held up a Farmington Township gasoline station early Sept. 30. About $70 was taken, police report.

Mike A. Degtyster, 19, of Detroit, told police that a man had driven into Botsford Standard, Inc. (Eight Mile Rd. and Grand River) shortly before 2 a.m. Monday and asked him to put gas in the car.

While filling the order, the attendant was told to go into the station.

"I didn't know what was going on, but the man was acting strange," Degtyster said. "So I went into the station."

After ordering the attendant to open the cash register and step back, the suspect took all the bills and change. "He told me not to try anything fishy," Degtyster said. The suspect pulled a small pistol from under his sweater and fired one shot into a cabinet, three inches from the attendant's leg. Township police recovered a spent .25-caliber shell on the floor in front of the cabinet.

Beechview Sets Field Trips To Concerts

Students of Farmington's Beechview Elementary School will have the opportunity to attend four children's concerts by the Detroit Symphony this year.

Sponsored by the PTA the program is open to children in grades two through six. Mrs. Mildred Bennett, music consultant, will work the program into the curriculum. The Piccolo Opera Company will present Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" Oct. 19. Valler Poole will conduct the orchestra. Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker" will be presented Dec. 21 by the Severo Ballet Company, while Corwell Carington will narrate Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" Feb. 22. Concluding the series on April 5, cartoonist Stu Hample will illustrate Rossini's "William Tell Overture."
