Lovely Edie Adams who goes into her second big week in Lofy's Pavilion Room Monday, Feb. 15, admits to being frustrated.

Edie started making her own clothes as a small child in Pennsylvania. But that singing has won out over dress-design is evident in her performance in the Plymouth nightclub, located on Ann Arbor Rd. She sings the standard favorites and swinging "mod" ballads. She also gives her impressions of famous people.

BORN IN 1904 in New Jersey. William "Count" Basie learned the piano from his mother and first played with louring theater groups. He took over the Buddy Moten band when Moten died international fame when he began recording for Decca in 1937. His notable qualities are a simple, swinging, elliptical piano style and the driving impetus of a strong rhythm section. A number of musicians, especially tenor sax players, developed under Basie's guidance, and he has remained loyal to the "blues" as a basic form.
