

Luxuries In Master Bathroom

If you have space in the master bathroom indulge in a few luxuries.

The dressing area in this master bedroom complex has sliding doors to assure complete privacy. The dressing table is as glamorous as that in a Hollywood studio.

And from the practical viewpoint, there's plenty of storage space, too.

Although opulent to the eye, this interior is easy to keep clean. A plastic-finished hardwood that is highly resistant to heat and moisture was used on all the walls and ceiling.

Gold tones predominate in the color-coordinated area. An interesting gold fern pattern is used in the shower, while new gold linen-striped planks accent the dressing room walls.

These 16 inch x 8 foot Marbleite planks are tongue- and-grooved to simplify fitting. They are installed with concealed metal clips and wall-board adhesive.

THIS DRESSING AREA has well-designed storage, too. Sliding doors permit complete privacy. Wall-to-wall carpeting, a classical chair, and handsome accessories make this a contemporary dream room. This prefabricated paneling can be installed over old walls, solid backing or new framing. Detailed installation instructions are included in each carton of paneling, so the home handyman can tackle a project with confidence.

New Snapdragon Is 'Little Darling'

The lovely open-faced snapdragons introduced only a few years ago have a new addition, a brace modest winning variety in a new height—12 to 15 inches. Appropriately, it is called Little Darling.

This All-America Selections winner for 1971 is a hybrid with a mixture of all the bright, clear, gay colors in its forebear, Bright Butterflies.

It is just as husky, may have as many as 10 base-branching stems on a single plant, and produces a profusion of flowers from early summer to frost. It is earlier flowering than most snapdragons.

Considered semi-dwarf, since there are both taller varieties and lower ones like Magic Carpet, Little Darling plants need no staking and will occupy with distinction a space in mid-border and will mix happily with other annuals and perennials.

A GLANCE from ground to tip of bloom spikes will show you that this new snapdragon, Little Darling, is semi-dwarf in type so it needs no staking.

Comes In Many Hues

Alyssum's a "natural" for use as a border along paths or drives, in beds or borders.

Plants hug the ground, can be sheared in mid-season to keep them compact and get more bloom but still look well without shearing.

Individual flowers are tiny but clusters of them are more noticeable. During summer evenings their delightful scent floats on the breeze.

THE PRETTIEST borders in the garden are those of sweet alyssum.

Most gardeners know only the white-flowered alyssums. But there also are newer varieties with pink, lavender, lilac or purple flowers. Just as easy to grow from seeds as those with white blooms.

Pine paneling can be painted if all the loose varnish is removed. Latex paint can be used. It is imperative that all loose paint or varnish be removed or it will peel under the new coating.

The Green Thumb
By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Old fashioned apples: So you're hankering to sink your teeth into one of the old fashioned variety of apples such as Snow (Farmhouse) or Pound Sweet (Pumpkin Sweet)? A lot of folks want to plant the old varieties and I think it's a good idea. The old Snow has snow-white flesh and crackles when you bite into it. One of the finest for eating out of hand and cooking. Snow ripens early September.

You'll want Pound Sweet in your backyard planting. Fruits are large and flavor is delightfully sweet. Skin is amber to golden yellow when fully ripe. Ripens mid to late September.

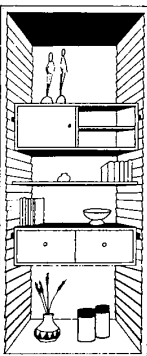

Summer Rambo is one of the first apples grown in this country. A large apple with brightly striped skin, Rambo is one of the finest dessert apples grown, ripening in late September. Spitznberg was Thomas Jefferson's favorite apple, dating back to the 1700s.

There are others such as Golden Russet (what sweet cider it makes!), Cox Orange Pippin and Chango Strawberry, to name a few of the oldies which are ideal for the home orchard.

NOTE: When planting apples, you might give thought to using the semi-dwarf types only since they bear in three or four years, whereas the regular or standards take a lot longer. If there isn't a source of old apple varieties in your area, send me your name and address and we'll send you the name of a firm which handles old favorites.

UMBRELLA PLANT: Many homes and offices have the Schefflera or umbrella plant, an ideal subject because of its ability to flourish in various situations. Schefflera gets tall and needs to have its top cut out when it is too high. Start a new plant by rooting the top in a gallon of water.

Also, save the mother plant as it will send out new growth and be a bushier plant. Water it by soaking the soil well, then let it dry out a bit between waterings. Poor drainage or too much water will cause leaves to drop off and new ones to curl up instead of remaining rigid and flat. Brown spots around edges is due to overwatering.

UPSIDE-DOWN beveled siding faces shelf area, serves as cleats for interchangeable shelves, storage cabinets; lends good looks.
