Television began for Charlotte Ocas as she pursued two interests through classes, in Tai Chi and television production, at MetroVision. Charlotte was taking the Tai Chi lessons for stress reduction. She felt Tai Chi would lend itself to television as the moves are so fluid, as well as of interest to all age groups as the exercises help to improve and attain agility.

Therefore combining two of her interests, she asked instructor Tony Simper to teach a class for television. Charlotte is especially thankful for her loyal crew who showed up for a taping even in the middle of February ice storm.

Her crew is Tom Chaney, technical director, Don Campbell, audio; Bob Kadau, boom operator; Christa Quandt, camera; Roberta Zimmer, camera; Dick Weir, camera; Edwy Campbell, camera; and herself as producer/director. Donnell Conway of SWOCO and John Kaley of MetroVision have lent staff support.

Besides her involvement in community television, Charlotte works for Ford Parts and Services Division in Dearborn. She lives in Farmington Hills after being transferred with Ford from Atlanta.

MYTHS ABOUT CHRISTIANITY

THE MYTH OF THE MONTH

Jesus Christ was only a great moral teacher

What are we to make of this man? The joys and hardships of two thousand years of western history have been plucked on him. Centuries have constantly resurrected his claims. Religious life in the West has been dominated by adherence to his teachings. No self-respecting person dare avoid this intriguing individual and his impact on society.

No one doubts any more his existence. Most people also believe that he was a great moral teacher. Religious and political leaders throughout the world, including many of the great opponents of Christianity, have the moral superiority of his life. Moranzas (Caroli) argued for the ideas of the Sermon on the Mount. The philosopher, John Stuart Mill, thought Jesus a genius, and probably the greatest moral reformer who ever existed. Even Napoleon Bonaparte considered him a superior leader of men.

The New Testament documents record the radical seven-kilometre attitude which lent power and credibility to Jesus' teachings. He has truly led humanity in the expression of compassion and humility, as well as in an ardent, unflinching and prophetic, Jesus combined a realistic understanding of human nature with an idealism for what human beings could become. His words have tested, challenged the minds and hearts of millions for centuries.

Of course, this is not the whole story. When we begin to consider Jesus' claims about his identity, the controversy begins. This is where people (including the world's religious leaders) have problems. This is where the real "moral teacher" is put to the test. It begins to seem inadequate, if not naive.

A thirty year old peasant carpenter turned itinerant teacher, Jesus laid claim both by word and action to be more than a mere man. He operated on the assumption that he was God himself.

How do we know this? From his explicit statements and the way he lived. His self-disclosure as an intruder in the very fabric of the New Testament. He claimed equality with God. He said he had lived before Abraham. He assumed the right to forgive sins. He accepted worship. These claims are to be taken seriously.

Jesus of Nazareth could not be simply a harmless moral teacher. He cuts too deep and steps out too far from the crowd of moral teachers and philosophers. We can call him a liar. We might even discuss his mental instability. But the "moral teacher" idea is a very shallow one.

It was never an option in his own day. Some of his contemporaries thought him mad, others loved him. He was regarded with disdain and sometimes even hatred, or alternately with amazement and adoration. But he never received approval.

Neither is it an option for today. We have to shut him up or hear him out. What are we to make of this man? What is his moral legacy? What is his moral legacy of aspiration? His prediction of death and resurrection? What are we to make of his claims to be the one and only God-man of history? What are we to do with this great moral teacher who makes such impossible claims?
