

Choreographers show works

"Breaking New Ground," a contemporary choreography showcase, will be presented by Oakland University's Department of Music, Theatre and Dance at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, June 15 and 16.

The program will be performed in the Varner Recital Hall on the Oakland University campus, Rochester. It will feature dances by six choreographers. Laurie Eisenhower, an assistant professor of dance at Oakland University, will be directing the program and presenting two works of her choreography.

"THREE FACES OF WOMAN" to music by Erik Satie is "a satirical look at stereotypical female imagery and roles in society," she said. Her other work set to percussion music from the '30s and '40s "is about things you want and maybe need but can't always have, such as money, love, youth and freedom."

Harbinger Dance Company dancers Bruce Tabej and Melissa Trombley will be premiering a new duet choreographed collaboratively. Within the dance, they explore their sense of playfulness as individuals and as friends.

Dina McDermott will be presenting two works to premiere "Affirmation/Affirmation" to traditional Irish music. Her duet "Is about conquering fears and reconciling with one's particular path in life," she said.

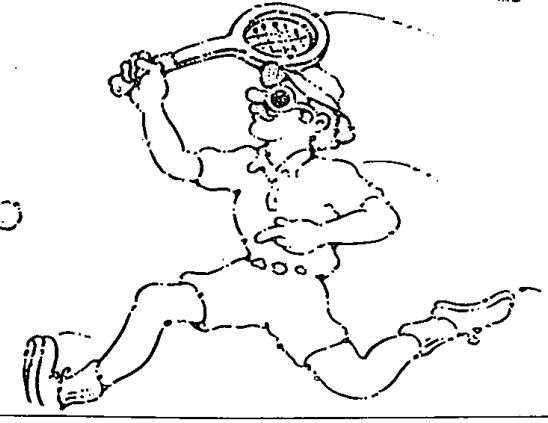

BOBBI LUCAS, a teacher and choreographer at the Creative Arts Center in Pontiac, will be presenting a trio to environmental and contemporary music that explores man's relationship to technology. "Remembrance" by Mary Fehrenbach, an Ann Arbor dancer and teacher, is a work for four women that takes a bitter-sweet look at memories of supportive yet volatile relationships.
