Log Lady role on 'Twin Peaks' in the works a long time

The Log Lady, a familiar figure in Twin Peaks, seems to possess an extraordinary, otherworldly understanding. She is well-liked by those who are not afraid of her. Catherine Coulson has known she would play the character of the Log Lady since 1972. She first met director David Lynch when he cast her in the role of the nurse in his cult classic, Eraserhead. Over the course of the four years which that movie was in production, she found herself mastering many skills. Most memorably, she created Henry's famous hairdo for the film. It was then Lynch told her: "Someday you're going to play a girl with a log in a TV series that I want to do."

Diane Keaton will make her debut as a prime-time TV director in an upcoming episode of ABC's China Beach. The episode will look at Nurse Colleen McMurphy's (Dana Delany) life back in the States after her tour of duty in Vietnam has ended.

Academy Award-winner Maximilian Schell has joined Wiseguy for the drama series' first six-hour arc. The actor-director plays a Cuban-American crime kingpin who has sold out his own people for personal gain. Wiseguy is scheduled to return to the CBS prime-time lineup later this season.

At Matt Williams' conference with the Hollywood Foreign Press, he was asked the difference between working with Carol Burnett (which he does) and Roseanne Barr (which he did). Said Williams, "I'll say only one thing. It's the difference between heaven and hell."

Jay Leno will perform two shows for U.S. troops stationed in the Persian Gulf during the Thanksgiving holiday. Leno's appearances will be the first USO shows in the area since Iraq invaded Kuwait.

Lesley Boone is portly, happy, and trying to make it in the Big Apple on FOX's Babes, Thursdays.

Melanie Wilson stars as Jennifer in the ABC comedy series Perfect Strangers, Fridays.

For the fifth year, Pee-wee Herman delights audiences on CBS' Pee-wee's Playhouse, Saturdays.
