Spring weather brightens outdoor cable shoots

The wonderful weather of spring encourages our energies to venture out on more "on-location/remote" television shoots.

Natural elements lend themselves to special effects — shooting the rolling clouds of an encoming storm, surveying the ripples of a brook while zeroing in on the gurgling of the water, capturing the panorams of garden in full bloom.

The spontaneity of such video advenure must have certain levels of conformity surrounding "permission" while on private property or capturing a person and their thought or activities, we found to be helpful is. If you have to open a door, walk up a sidewalk or go through an entrance gate, someone should already know you are coming.

should already know you are com-log.

Have your signed video release in band or a clearance verification number issued by the person in-charge. All your spontaneity can be ruined if the person in charge does not understand why you are there. Contact MetroVision or SWOCC for your supply of on-location re-lease forms.
