HOW LONG? Augie Barbrick enjoys a restful repose but may not for long. Judy Huber appears to have other ideas and the look in her eyes give a warning that Augie may soon be without a chair.

THE STRUTTER -- Charles Williams practices his strutting for the Jaycees' musical as he carries a whisk broom, very likely for the purpose of a professional cleanup job.

SECOND SHOT -- Charles Williams (center) is awaiting a second pie in the face from Ken Asselin, chairman of this year's Jaycee musical mystery. Al Brown doesn't really care because neither his face nor pie is involved.

CAST & CHORUS -- Joe Germeck (center) whips up enthusiasm as the cast and chorus gather during rehearsal for the 24th annual show of the Farmington Jaycees. "The Case of the Purloined Proprietor, or Who Heisted Hernandez?" will be presented at 8 p.m. on March 18-20 in the Farmington Senior High auditorium.

rum. Tickets for the March 18 performance are being sold by students from the three Farmington high schools. Tickets for the musical mystery may also be obtained from any Farmington Jaycee or at Clappison & Conroy Insurance, Kwikie Duplicating, Godmar Rexall Pharmacy or the Farmington Community Center.

COMING UP -- Frank Hill gets decked in "The Case of the Purloined Proprietor, or Who Heisted Hernandez?" but gets a helping hand from Barry Walsh. Both will be appearing in the Farmington Jaycees' 24th annual show.

STEPPING OUT -- Carol Hannen steps out quick with her partner while rehearsing a dance number for the Farmington Jaycees' musical March 18-20, in Farmington Senior High auditorium.
