Questions should be sent to the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, P.O. Box Drugs, Livonia, Mich. 48151.
Q. There's been some talk about a 24-hour rap line being opened in this area. From my own experience, most kids don't turn real heavy from nine to five. When the bummers come is mostly late at night or weekends. Do you have any definite news about an all-week, all-night, rap line? D.R., Livonia

A. Yes, there is some definite news. The Community Commission on Drug Abuse has a target date of April 15 for a 24-hour crisis rap line.
Main reason for the delay has been the need to properly train the volunteers to answer calls. Remember that a "bummer" (bad drug trip) or an emotional crisis can be a serious matter. Untrained personnel at the business end of a rap line would be worse than nothing at all.
If you'd like to volunteer, call 261-DRUG during normal business hours. After April 15 you can presumably volunteer at 3 a.m. if you like. Watch this column for further details.

Q. In the Feb. 14 issue of Observer Newspapers, the director of CCODA is quoted as saying "a study which gave evidence that the use of LSD caused genetic damage has not been supported in subsequent studies. The researcher who released the results has almost been banished from medical research." Does this mean that LSD is not all that bad?
H.B., Livonia

A. The quotation mentioned by H.B. is not correctly attributed to the CCODA or its director. However, the director of CCODA has stated many times that "all too often uncontrolled research on drugs such as LSD have taken place without proper safeguards to assure validity (truth) and reliability (capable of being supported and substantiated in repeated experimentation). As an example, many early LSD studies (1962-63) were poorly controlled and their results are questionable.

"In one particular experiment on non-humans, the data is extremely questionable and the research team is no longer referred to by present day researchers they... have been almost banished from research."

Regarding the danger factor of LSD, present day research, well controlled and well documented, though not complete, points to the high risk potential of chromosomal damage and brain disorders induced by LSD use. Absolute proof one way or another is not available but, remember...

"The absence of total proof that something is completely dangerous does not mean that there exists total proof that the substance is completely safe." The only sure statement concerning LSD and marijuana is that not all the research data is in. More research is necessary. "A wise man is he who makes his judgment only when all the facts are in."

Q. Is Cocaine addicting? It kind of knocks me out and I'm getting to like it. I can afford the $3 a tablet, but what happens if I really get hooked?
R.P., Westland

A. Ouch! Color yourself burned:

- 1) Cocaine is not addicting.
- 2) Cocaine is almost never supplied in tablet form.
- 3) Cocaine is a profound stimulant, not something that "knocks you out."
- 4) Cocaine is really expensive drug—for $3 you couldn't turn on a goldfish.
- 5) If Ralph Nader ever takes on the underground drug scene, your source has gotta be the first to get wiped out.

Q. I'm into heroin when I can get it. Into any other narcotics when I can't. I want out of the habit but not with methadone, because I'm perfectly aware that it's another narcotic. Is there any way to get clean without drugs?

S.M., Clareceville A. Hopefully, yes. There are five other adults who are interested in forming a drug-free narcotics after-care counseling program. If there is enough interest and response, the Community
Commission on Drug Abuse will give its assistance in setting up such a program.
