Garden Crops Just For Michigan

Many tailor-made vegetables for Michigan home gardens will be available during this year.

Vegetable breeders at Michigan State University report that the following top vegetable varieties are now available to home gardeners throughout the state.

CUCUMBERS — Two MSU pickling cucumber hybrids are now available in the garden seed trade. Look for the names Spartan Dawn and Spartan Champion. These are especially adapted to Michigan growing conditions.

A slicing cucumber hybrid, Spartan Valor, was a 1967 "all-America" winner exhibiting good yield, quality and disease resistance.

MUSKMELONS — According to MSU vegetable breeders, Howell Spartan is still a good hybrid muskmelon. Released in 1966, this variety has an excellent sweet flavor and a good musky taste and smell. It is resistant to powdery mildew fungus. Howell Spartan can be planted near the first of June and picked by the end of August. The melons will fall off the vine when ripe, but shouldn't be eaten for at least a day or two to give them time to develop their full sweet flavor. The MSU scientists say that the fallen melons should be eaten or stored after the one to two day "sweetening" period.

Other good varieties include Burpee Hybrid, Saturo and Gold Star.

PEPPERS — Two new MSU pepper varieties have been released in the past two years. They are Spartan Emerald and Spartan Garnet. Spartan Garnet, only recently made available, is a dwarf pimiento type which features early production concentrated over a short period. Plants are uniform, 10 to 12 inches high and about 10 inches in diameter. Mature fruits are mild, thick fleshed, about 1 1/4 inches in diameter and 3 1/4 inches long. Spartan Emerald, a green pepper, is now available from seedsmen. The fruit is mild and sweet and is more consistent and uniform in variety than most other types. It is especially recommended for home gardeners who want peppers for salads or pickling.

TOMATOES — The best tomato varieties now available for southern Michigan gardeners are:
 Early — Springset.
 Mid-season — Heinz 1350, Campbell 1327, Jet Star and Roma VF (tomato paste variety).
 Late — Heinz 1370, VF Hybrid, Ace, 55 VF.
 Yellow varieties: Sunray and Jubilee.

Cherry type: Small Fry, Large Red Cherry, Yellow Pear, Yellow Plum, and Yellow Cherry.

SPARTAN GARNET is a new MSU dwarf pimiento pepper variety that is now available to home gardeners. The small, red fruits are thick fleshed and have a mild flavor.

Annual Garden Forum Is 'Horticultural Event'

The 10th annual Clara B. Ford Garden Forum April 21-23 at Greenfield Village promises to be one of the Midwest's most significant horticultural events this year.

Six authorities, foremost in their fields, are scheduled to speak during the three days of the forum. Keynote speaker will be Dr. William H. Carlson, extension specialist, Department of Horticulture at Michigan State University. His talk, "What's New for the Garden" is essentially a summation of new ideas in landscaping, plant materials and gardening techniques.

The forum also includes films, demonstrations, tours, nature walks, panel discussions, a special exhibit in the Henry Ford Museum with an introduction to the exhibit on "Plants and the American Indian," and an informal reception and banquet Friday evening at Lovett Hall in Greenfield Village.

Questions will be answered by James A. Fowler, Clara B. Ford Garden Forum, Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn, Michigan 48121.

Wednesday
 9:30 A.M. — Garden Film
 10 A.M. — Lecture, "What's New" Will Carlson, Michigan State University Extension Service
 11:15 A.M. — Panel Discussion moderated by Mr. Carlson
 2 P.M. — Introduction of Special Exhibit, "Plants and the American Indian."
 3 P.M. — Tour of Greenfield Village with horticultural demonstrations by Village staff.
 8 P.M. — Lecture on landscape lighting followed by visit to Burbank House for lighting exhibition.

Thursday
 8:30 A.M. — Nature Walk (Greenfield Village). James A. Fowler, Director of Education, Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.
 9:30 A.M. — Garden Film
 10 A.M. — Lecture, "Landscape Your Home" W.R. Nelson, Jr.
 11:15 A.M. — Lecture, "Keeping Your Garden Healthy." Mae Sierfman, Cincinnati Garden Center.
 1 P.M. — Tour of Hidden Lakes Gardens with Country Picnic.

Friday
 10 A.M. — Two workshops — demonstrations concurrently:
 a. Bonsai-Robert Maxon
 b. Dried Flowers — Marshall Engle
 Noon — Tree Planting Ceremony
 2 P.M. — Lecture, "Plant Propagation."
 4 P.M. — Free time to view Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.
 6:30 P.M. — Informal reception and banquet followed by lecture.

Any Corner May Be Play Corner

To keep youngsters and their toys from getting underfoot, give them a play corner all their own, suggests home service advisor Mrs. Pauline Church.

Here are the points to keep in mind:
 1. The child's own room is the first choice as a play area. But you can also use a corner of the utility room, breakfast room, or family room.

2. The flooring should be washable and easy to keep clean; tile is good.

3. Give the child a washable area rug to sit and kneel on. The rug should have a non-skid backing to prevent slips and falls.

4. Furnishings should be child-size and durable.

5. Have plenty of accessible storage space. Consider stacking vegetable bins of non-marring plastic, or arrange a series of sturdy corrugated boxes.
