NOBLE SCHOOL NOTES
The primary room was invited to the other room for morning exercises Tuesday. We surely enjoyed it very much.

Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. Schulkins, Mrs. Darwin, Mrs. Winters and Mrs. Vandeburgh visited our room Tuesday.

We have earned seven stars toward becoming an achievement school. We now are working on good citizenship learning the flag salute and America.

We are glad to have Gordon Mathews back to school again after an absence of two weeks because of a fractured collar bone.

Upper Room
We have had fine success with our hot luncheon thus far. The cooks for January are Mary Lockridge and Lucille Jacobs.

John Nowell returned to school on Monday, Jan. 24. He was a former student who has been living in Detroit until recently. Glad to have you back with us John.

The upper room entertained the primary pupils on Tuesday, Jan. 25. The feature of the program was an old fashioned school. Anna Vandeburgh, the teacher, had a great deal of trouble with some of her pupils, especially a negro boy named Rastus Johnson.

Miss Ravell, the helping teacher visited us on Jan. 19, and conducted a reading test.

Ralph Spaller has been absent for the past two weeks on account of sickness.

During the last month the Indians and White Men have staged two desperate now hat battles. The Indians have won both engagements, but their opponents say that the winter is not over yet. Chester Mitchell has fought bravely for the White Men.

Among the leaders in their grades for this year are the following: Charles Schulkins, Frank Kerr, Fred Crook, William Rocher and Arline Oldham.
January is the month in which Benjamin Franklin was born, so we have tried to remember him in arranging our room decorations. Vail Huc, assisted by Marjorie Wendlandt and Anna Vandeburgh made a fine border for our blackboard, containing some of Franklin's sayings.

The Woody McCall tests in arithmetic which were given to the pupils in December showed the following to be at or above their standard: Charles Schulkins William Rocher, Frank Kerr, Fred Crook, Dorothy Smith, Richard Schulkins and Arline Oldham.

The seventh grade had a debate during the month on the question of whether the study of history or geography was of more importance. The arguments on both sides became so violent that Mr. Meehan called it a draw in order to escape without bloodshed. Frank Kerr says the only way you can reason with some people is by using a shotgun.

It's also a pioneer who can remember when we didn't have to get new auto tags every year.
