DEATH OF AURILLA SOULE

Mrs. Aurilla Soule, died at her home in Plymouth, February 21. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery, Farmington today.

The deceased was the daughter of Thomas and Mariett Francis, and was a former well known resident of Farmington. The family occupied and owned the house next to the Green home on Shawassee street. Her father built the store now occupied by Herman Schroeder as a meat market. He sold groceries there and was postmaster and had the post office in the building in 1872. The deceased married Joseph Soule in 1881. She is survived by her son Francis. Her residence has been in Plymouth for a number of years. She was of a kindly, sympathetic nature, ever ready to give assistance if needed and active and energetic in doing deeds that make the world a happier and better place in which to live.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Honoring the twenty-first birthday anniversary of their son Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCracken entertained forty-five guests at their home Saturday evening. The party was a complete surprise to the young man and he received several beautiful gifts. Games were the evening's diversion. Lovely refreshments were served in conclusion.

Fake check artists are said to be working in Michigan again. The restaurant proprietor who agreed to cash no checks as long as the bank served no meals, had the right idea. If you persist in going into the banking business don't be surprised if you get stung occasionally.
