BITS AND PIECES

Warner Bros. recently donated $100,000 to help the Black Filmmaker Foundation establish programs for its newly created West Coast office. A national membership organization, the Black Filmmaker Foundation currently has more than 2,000 members, and plays an important role in helping develop an awareness of the work of black filmmakers.

NBC's Quantum Leap was honored recently by Viewers for Quality Television. The watchdog group named Leap co-stars Scott Bakula and Dean Cain, well best actor and supporting actor, respectively, in a quality drama series. Stockwell will also receive a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame on Leap Day, Feb. 29, 1992.

Country music is on the rise. In the past two years the industry has earned a record 41 gold, eight platinum and five multiplatinum albums. Country radio also holds 14.4 percent of the market, compared with adult contemporary's 13.4 percent and rock's 11.3 percent.

Production on Bram Stoker's Dracula, being directed by Francis Ford Coppola, has recently begun. The planned 1992 release stars Gary Oldman as Dracula, with Winona Ryder, Anthony Hopkins and Keanu Reeves.

Jim Belushi stars in Red Heat, airing Saturday on CBS (if World Series game six is unnecessary).

Hugh Downs and Barbara Walters are co-hosts of 20/20, airing Fridays on ABC.
