

Raiders repel SC rally

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

The point was made. In fact, several points were made Wednesday night at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus, where OCC held off Schoolcraft College to collect an 83-77 men's basketball victory.

Point No. 1: Before you can score points, you have to get the ball to a spot where you can shoot from. SC found that out.

Point No. 2: Never take anything for granted, no matter how many more points you have than the other team. OCC nearly learned that the hard way.

Point No. 3: A man at the point always helps. SC didn't have a true point guard and, ultimately, that ruined the Ocelots (see Point No. 1).

Point No. 4: Having a guy who can put a lot of points on the board is always nice. OCC's Flashie Reviere filled that role nicely, scoring 37.

THIS WAS a game that seemed decided by halftime. The Ocelots had managed to play OCC evenly through the first 11:30 of the game. Then the Raiders' full-court pressure began to shred SC. Seven straight points resulted from five Ocelot turnovers in a 9-second span.

A Tony Rumples jumper interrupted the streak, but didn't stop it. OCC scored the next 10 points too, and with 2 1/2 minutes left until intermission the Raiders had a 39-22 lead.

It was 43-28 at the break, and Reviere, he had 14 points in the final 15 minutes, 20 in the half — and the Raiders' pressure — they forced 20 SC turnovers — were the reason.

In the opening minutes of the second half not much changed. OCC was going through layup drills; with 15:56 left, the Raiders were up 55-30.

THAT'S WHEN something weird happened.

OCC coach Lynn Reed called off his full-court pressure and began putting in his subs. It proved to be a mistake.

"It was my fault, too," said Raiders coach Lynn Reed, accepting the blame. "I went to my bench a little too early. I got my rotation out of sync, my substitutions, and then I did a call at intermission."

The Ocelots started a comeback that at the time seemed as unlikely as Detroit having an 80-degree day in January. SC outscored the Raiders 26-4 in a 7 1/2 minute stretch, trimming their lead to 61-59.

THE RAIDERS could thank the basketball gods for having Reviere. After Bill Knight's basket with 15:10 left, only one Raider put points on the board for almost nine minutes — Reviere. He had all eight of OCC's points in that span.

Reed got the rest of his starters back into the game and the momentum reversed. After Jeff Wagner pulled SC to within 65-63 with 6:31 remaining, the Raiders ran off five straight points. SC did manage to pull to within 71-67 on a Central Ahmed hoop with 4:12 left, but the Raiders answered with a 9-2 run.

That made it 80-69 and sealed SC's fate. "At the end, they put the squeeze on again and we had problems," said SC coach Dave Bogatz. "At least we made it a ball game. We played hard, we never gave up."

WHAT KILLED SC was its lack of a point guard. What wrecked the Ocelots' game plan: try to get the ball inside to Scott Meredith and Jarvis Murray.

"I thought we did a good job on their big men," said Reed. Indeed the Raiders did. Meredith and Murray, SC's top two scorers, were limited to 10 points apiece.

If SC had been as successful defending Reviere, the Ocelots might have won anyway. But Reviere was devastating. In addition to 37 points, he had 12 rebounds and six steals.

OCC prevails after 3 OTs

Nothing has come easily for Oakland Community College's men's basketball team this season, so Saturday's outcome at Macomb County has been expected.

It took a Bill Knight 16-point performance to lead the Raiders to victory over OCC at 80-68 and force overtime. Then the Raiders had to withstand three extra minutes before they could finally emerge with their first Eastern Conference win in two weeks, a 101-94 triumph.

Rashe Reviere was the reason for OCC's victory. The 6-foot-8 sophomore poured in 47 points, making 16 of 33 shots. He also grabbed 10 rebounds and dished out seven assists. "He was just outstanding," said coach Lynn Reed.

Macomb had gone ahead on two Terrence Walker free throws with 13:41 left in regulation, setting up Knight's layup. Knight finished with 14 points and 23 rebounds for OCC. Walker led Macomb with 11 points.

They couldn't score 28 for the Raiders, with Dale Chalk getting 10 points and Darin Brandt collecting eight assists. OCC's rebounding was a key factor. The Raiders had a commanding 59-41 lead at the half.

The win improved OCC's conference record to 4-5; the Raiders are 9-11 overall. Heavy Ford OCC leads the league with a 10-0 mark, followed by Highland Park and Macomb at 5-4. Not to be out at 4-4, with OCC right behind.

Harrison pulls inside job

The Raiders were on track in the fourth quarter when they cut a 17-point deficit from 46-29 at the start to 49-41.

Mark Temple, who scored 14 of his 16 points in the second half, sank two three-point shots, Dean Pennala (10) a triple and a free throw and Brian Lee a fast-break layup as North outscored the Hawks 12-5 to get within eight points at 50-42.

But the Raiders were the next three minutes without scoring while Harrison, ironically, used free throws to re-extend its lead.

North missed shots on its next four possessions, including two three attempts, and the Hawks scored seven unanswered points. Pencil had four of the points and combined with Givvy and Anderson for five free throws.

"WE DIDN'T take bad shots," Negoshian said. "I told them I can't get mad at you if you keep taking good shots, keep giving yourselves opportunities — and we did that."

"They were getting shots the whole quarter before and they weren't going in," Teachman said. "The key is not giving them the second shot at that point."

The Hawks were efficient in that regard the entire game, and it played no small part in Harrison building a nice lead through three quarters. The Hawks scored the last seven points of the first period to lead 16-10, increased that to 23-19 at halftime and held the line in the third.

"In the third quarter, we got the ball inside and got in the bonus and then stopped doing it," Teachman said. "That was due partly to North's defense, and they started to dribble-drive and initiate some contact, and they started going to the line."

World Cup backers think positive

POSITIVE, POSITIVE, POSITIVE.

So my message isn't exactly subliminal: Let's be positive. Nothing is the one from World Cup Michigan, the committee whose intent is exactly as stated in its title.

They are blunt. They are certain bringing international soccer to the Pontiac Silverdome will help elevate Detroit's image worldwide. At the same time, they are equally convinced such an extravaganza will create a fever for the sport previously dormant in this area.

I might have agreed with many of the naysayers in town a few months ago, those who snickered at this so-called groundless, foolish optimism. "Come — tear out rows of seats to build a platform above the Silverdome field, then plant grass over it for a few soccer games!" It sounded inconceivable, ridiculous.

It doesn't anymore.

NOT ONLY is World Cup Michigan assured the technology needed to provide grass turf (a requirement for World Cup soccer), the committee has gone one better: It has apparently convinced FIFA, the governing body of international soccer, of the same thing.

Now there seems just one obstacle left to hurdle, one potential puddle that could muddy the committee's plan.

People. Do think because World Cup Michigan has accomplished so much — already nearly half the money needed to stage the World Cup in '94 has been pledged, and the thought of playing some of the games indoors has received positive press abroad — that Pontiac is a shoo-in.

The importance of Sunday's game, pitting the U.S. team against the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS, formerly the Soviet Union), should not be underestimated. A huge turnout will make it difficult for the U.S. World Cup Committee to ignore the Silverdome when it chooses the 12 host venues from the 19 candidates remaining in March.

A poor turnout could do just the opposite.

BUT REMEMBER, we're trying to be positive. Which isn't too difficult, after speaking to those associated with World Cup Michigan.

C.J. Risak

According to Roger Faulkner, chairman of the committee, they would like to break the state record for largest soccer crowd — which is about 32,000. It's a realistic goal. Jim Duggan, the committee's executive director, estimated that more than 20,000 tickets to the game have already been sold. He expects a crowd of about 30,000 — the same size Miami drew Sunday for the same two teams.

If they do get a crowd that size, what will it accomplish?

"I think we have a very strong bid now," said Duggan. "A crowd in excess of 30,000 will really strengthen it."

"One question (the U.S. World Cup committee) is asking is, 'Can they draw?' I think it can get 30,000 fans to an exhibition game in February, that's a good indication. 'If we draw 30,000, we'll have done everything we could possibly have done for our bid.'"

FAULKNER BELIEVES the crowd for Sunday's game "has significance, but it's only one of many factors" in bringing the World Cup to the Silverdome. Indeed, Faulkner said "the strength of our bid is so well established that we'd have to fall on our face this weekend to go backward and have a negative effect."

A crowd well under 20,000 would be considered a step backward. But that's a negative approach. Besides, more tickets than that have already been sold.

There are other ways this game could hurt the Silverdome's chances. If the staging is poorly executed, for instance; several of the top-echelon U.S. committee's members are scheduled to be here, including president Alan Rothenberg, executive director Hank Steinbrecher and senior vice president-venues Ross Berlin.

A British TV camera crew and news team will also be here. Don't think they won't notice.

But that's stuff World Cup Michigan can control. What they can't control is the weather or the crowd size.

STILL, IF the metro-Detroit area is the hotbed of soccer they so firmly believe it to be, neither should be a worry.

With the fans turn out?

They should, because until the World Cup arrives in '94 (please note how positive I am), there won't be a better-quality game within a four-hour drive. With few exceptions (those still playing in European leagues), the finest U.S. has to offer will be playing. And this summer the same CIS team will defend the European championship captured by the Soviet Union in 1988.

The artificial turf might take something away from the game, but it should still be a top-caliber match. The U.S. lost to CIS in Miami, 1-0.

So if soccer is your interest, be there. Bring a friend, too. And remember: Be positive. Cheer alot. Smile alot.

Because a good showing Sunday could harvest an even bigger, and better, soccer crop in '94.
