Art courses set for adults

A new semester of adult education classes will be available in March through the Jonico Church Episcopalian Museum/Gallery, in the Jewish Community Center at 6600 W. Maple, West Bloomfield.

Course fees are $50 for Jewish Community Center members and $60 for non-members. For information or to pre-register, call 661-1000, Ext. 470.

"Living with Art II" is an art appreciation course focusing on understanding the history of the different artistic media.

The course will be offered on five Wednesday afternoons, beginning March 4. It will be taught by Paula Strickstein, who earned a master's degree in art history from Wayne State University.

ALSO AVAILABLE is an evening class, "Contemporary Art Now." It will be taught by Detroit area artist Robert Schellman and offered on five consecutive Thursdays, beginning 7:30-9 p.m. March 5.

The class will explore the art world of the 1980s, which saw a proliferation of styles and issues, and also look at some of the non-traditional art forms as well as painting and sculpture.

Think small for class

Small-scale household furnishings, ranging from upholstered easy chairs to a pot of chrysanthemums, are among items to be created during spring classes at Miniature Makers Workshop in Royal Oak.

The new term runs March 7 to June 4 at the Workshop, 4515 N. Woodward.

Owner Criss Good of Birmingham will include a class by Frank Balerieri of San Juan Bautista, Calif., Sunday, April 5.

Well known for his carved miniature decoys, Balerieri is a member of the International Guild of Miniature Artisans. He will instruct a day-long session on carving and painting a miniature Canada goose decoy.

For a complete schedule of classes and information, call Miniature Makers Workshop, 549-0633. Registration is requested about two weeks in advance of each class. Fees vary according to materials supplied and length of courses.

CLASSES BY Sue Jaques of Farmington Hills will begin Saturday, March 7, with the crafting of an easy chair. Later classes will include a brass bed, her children's class Saturday, April 11, will make a wicker chair.

Nancy Barnett of Farmington Hills will begin instruction on making a pot of chrysanthemums Tuesday, April 22.

day, March 31, and potted geraniums Tuesday, May 18.

The creation of a carved carousel ostrich will be covered in a five-session class by Judy Shalhoub of Plymouth, starting Saturday, March 28. Classes by Judith Adams of Grosse Pointe Woods, also an artisan of the IGMA, will begin Wednesday, March 25, with a start quilt session. Later instruction will cover Amish and rainbow chain quilts.

Thursday, March 26, Agnes Miller of Troy will teach the first of four sessions on making a porcelain baby doll with layette. Bettie Robinson of Birmingham will present three day-long clinics, on electrical wiring, interior and exterior finishes, starting Wednesday, April 1.

INSTRUCTORS ALSO include Nancy VanCamp of Pontiac, who will cover her specialty of food dishes in five separate classes, beginning Saturday, March 14, with a taco platter.

Tuesday, April 7, Iris Longo of Roseville will teach the first of four sessions on making a putter's shed for the miniaturist's store. Her later classes will be about silk roses, an Easter basket and a Victorian bird house.

Walt Schutter of Sterling Heights will teach the making of a Queen Anne settee from scratch Wednesday, April 22.

Focus on abstract

Ray Frost Fleming of the Robert Kidd Gallery in Birmingham will conduct a lecture on understanding abstract art as part of the Cranbrook P.M. series at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 4, in Gordon Hall, 550 Lone Pine Road.

The lecture will be followed by a visit to the Robert Kidd Gallery at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 11.

The lecture is part of a series taking the stance that abstract art and realism are the same thing. It aims at giving the listener a better understanding of abstract works. Series fee is $25; single evening, $15.

For details and registration, call 645-3635.

CCS students furnish show

A showing of original, one-of-a-kind furniture designs, made and interior design models by students at the Center for Creative Studies will be hosted by Zeising Associates Inc. at the Michigan Design Center in Troy, Feb. 27 through March 31.

An opening reception for invited guests, industry professionals and media representatives will take place 5:30-7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 27. For information, call 872-3118, Ext. 284.

The CCS serves as an anchor for arts education in southeastern Michigan and a focal point nationally and internationally for excellence in the applied, performing and fine arts.

The CCS-College of Art and Design is one of the nation's leading public, degree-granting visual arts schools.

Where there's a need, there's a way. The United Way.
