

Wine at Meadowbrook up to guv

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Concertgoers at the Meadowbrook Festival may be able to buy a glass of beer or wine instead of hauling in their own coolers if Gov. John Engler signs a bill passed by the state Legislature.

The House had to vote twice Tuesday before giving 61-27 approval to the bill.

Sponsored by Sen. Mat Dunakiss, R-Lake Orion, it affects Oakland University, which reportedly has been losing $1 million a year on its summer music festival.

"These events are entirely separate from the university and are not close to the dorms," said Rep. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills.

"You are permitted to bring your own beverages now. All we're asking is to allow the university to sell beer and wine by the glass," said Dolan.

"THE HOUSE rejected the bill 48-44 on the first try but approved it an hour later."

R-Farmington Hills

Voting yes: Democrats Justine Barnes of Westland, John Bennett of Redford, Maxine Berman of Southfield, James Kosteva of Canton, and Republicans Lynn Bankes of Livonia, Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield, Dolan, and Georgina Goss of Northville.

Voting no: Democrats William Keith of Garden City and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park, and Republicans Tom Middleton of Ortonville and Gordon Sparks of Troy.

Absent: John Jamlan, R-Birmingham.

The Senate passed it in March.

MIDDLETON said he was "caught between a rock and a hard place" on the issue.

"Do we give the university an exemption for a liquor license? Or do we turn it down and let free enterprise do it, the way they do at 'Pine Knob'?" the freshman lawmaker said.

To Rep. Claude Trim, R-Waterford, the issue was drinking on campus. Trim said that after passing tougher drunk driving laws, the Legislature "would be sending the wrong message to our young people."

Supporters said few students attended Meadowbrook Festival concerts.

THE DUNAKISS bill creates an exception in the Liquor Control Act. Without approval of the Rochester Hills council, the state Liquor Control Commission would be able to issue, with approval of the OU board, a tavern (beer and wine) or class C (liquor by the glass) license "which may be used only for regularly scheduled events at a public university's established outdoor program or festival."

It's limited to "a public university having a head count enrollment of 10,000 students or more." OU has about 12,000.

The license may be issued to OU directly, to a private concessionaire or both.

The license "may not be issued at an outdoor stadium customarily used for intercollegiate athletic events." Nor may its location be transferred.

OU scholarships target diversity, top scholars

A revised academic scholarship program offered this fall at Oakland University is designed to put a college education in reach of more students.

Four new scholarships, plus changes in long-standing scholarship programs, will allow the Rochester university to promote greater diversity within its student population and attract larger numbers of top undergraduate scholars.

"It's our belief that this new program will attract more top students to Oakland," said Sheldon Appleton, associate provost for undergraduate study. "We intend to go after these top scholars in the same way that some schools go after top athletes."

Appleton added the scholarships enhance the university's reputation as an institution where the brightest students can continue their education.

The first awards under the revised scholarship program will be effective with the fall 1992 semester. Students who applied for scholarships were automatically considered for the new and revised programs. Major changes have been made in the following areas:

Anibal/Burgum Excellence Scholarship, $2,500 a year. Commuter students and persons living in residence halls are eligible for this revised program. Six students will receive awards.

- Diversity Scholarships, $2,500 a year. Two will be awarded each year to students who will contribute to the diversity of the university community. Students may live on campus or be commuters. The new scholarships target students from underrepresented groups and students who would bring a different cultural perspective to the university community.

Information about any scholarship is available from the Office of Admissions and Scholarships, 313/370-3360.
