

Cable program fosters leukemia awareness

LARK SAMOUELIAN

"Let's Talk About It," produced by Patrick Harris is calling our attention to the Leukemia Society of America. Through the series, which introduces the key players, watch and meet: John Kimmins, president of the Michigan Chapter/Leukemia Society of America; Ruth Johnston, chair of the fund-raising "Leaves, Buds" show; Kathryn Hall and Kathryn Hall, co-chair, recently played Karen on "One Life to Live."

All were enjoying their plans for the June 5 Discovery Ball, which was the Leukemia Society. The purpose is to raise money to find a cure for leukemia. The show hopes to inspire the television audience to attend the ball or volunteer time in support of leukemia research. Patrick was especially excited about the dynamics of his television show. His director was Mark Adler, technical director was John Henna, audio was Fran Dudas, floor director was Donna Navette, camera was Jannah Sharkey and Victor Small. Harris and enjoy hosting guests repeat on because they have a chance to see the show. He also counts on other producers to be well read on their topics, so you have lots of questions to ask. "Let's Talk About It" will also be seen in Bloomfield Hills and Farmington.
