SOAP TALK

'Y&R' fan tired of stale plots

of stale plots

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: What has happened to The Young and the Resiless? It has been my favorite soap for so many years. I used to plan my day around it, in fact. My mother, who lives in Minnesota, and I used to call each other long distance and talk about the interesting and exciting things that happened on the soap, but Ma Bell is losing money on us this year.

It has become so boring, so inane, so lacking in story line, that I'm very close to giving it up altogether. The only story that was vaguely interesting was the one involving Sheila, but that least a couple of interesting stories going on simultaneously. The stories would be fun to watch and would certainly get your attention. Did all the writers die? Please help save our show —Sheila Propheter. San Rafael, Calif.

Dear Readen I assure you the writers

Calif.

Dear Readers I assure you the writers did not die, though I see how you might think that. Take heart; this summer will be full of surprises. Some story lines that are heating up include: the Victor and Nikki reconcillation (we knew these two could not stay spart for long). Olivin's pregnancy and the complication of having cancer; Dru will be involved in some crazy things; Paul, Lauren and Scott will have some funny and not-so-funny times in the near future; and the Victoria/Ryan/Nina love triangle could prove interesting.

Dear Candace: I enjoy The Bold and Calif.

Dear Candace: Lenjoy The Bold and the Beautiful. Please give me information on the actress who portrays Felicia Forester, the cutting-edge fashion designer. —Timothy Way, Earle, Ark.

Ark.

Dear Reader: Colleen Dion was born in upstate New York and grew up in Chicago. Her first tole was in the daytime drama Search for Tomorrow, after which she appeared on Loving for 18 months. She had parts in the feature films Fatal Charm and Lucas, and was east in the tole of Felicia Forrester on B&B in December 1989. Dion and her husband, whom she married after dating for only a couple of weeks, live in Los Angeles. in Los Angeles.
