

Hopeful Against FLE Plans

FARMINGTON
Mrs. Elizabeth Brennan sees her candidacy for the Farmington Board of Education as a measure of the public's attitude toward the Family Life Education programs.

"Many of the parents at the hearings (on drug abuse, sex education and minority understanding proposals) asked that they be placed on the ballot," she said. "They begged for a chance at a fair appraisal" of their popularity. "Well, they're on the ballot now with me in the picture."

MRS. BRENNAN opposes all three programs. She feels strongly that "public schools are in danger of being used as agencies of social change."

"Radical approaches to sex education, minority understanding, or drug abuse should be taken with great reservation since they are destructive of relationships among children and their families," she said in a statement.

She doesn't believe the district should "sacrifice programs such as remedial reading or consider forfeiting a strong athletic program, both of which are beneficial to our children, in place of programs which will be harmful rather than helpful to them."

MRS. BRENNAN, a lifelong resident of Farmington, is the mother of four children. The youngest now attends Notre Dame University. None attended public schools. Mrs. Brennan and her husband, William P. Brennan, live at 2295 Drake Road.

She is secretary-treasurer of Our Lady of Sorrows school board in Farmington and has served as an officer of the PTFA Guild at Sorrows.

She was the only three-term president of the League of Catholic Women, whose 25,000 members, she said, cover the greater Detroit area. She administered the League's five large agencies serving inner-city families.

MRS. ELIZABETH BRENNAN

Mrs. Brennan is current president of Citizens United for Farmington Youth and is a participant in the recall drive now under way against four incumbent board members.

Mrs. Brennan says "for the first time" she will vote against millage for schools at the June 14 election.
