S'fld photographer aims to win

BY JANICE KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

Since photographers Jim Probelaki of Livonia and Alan Lowy of Southfield like friendly competition, every year they try to out-do each other in the Michigan Renaissance Festival's photo contest.

This year, the two made a clean sweep of the black-and-white category, though, as Probelaki puts it, "I've knocked Alan down just a peg."

Probelaki won first place for his photo "Morning Greetings" and an honorable mention for the photo "Mistress." Lowy took second place for his photo, "Knight Fight" and third for "Odd Couple."

They were two of 16 shutterbugs who submitted 92 photos to the 1991 Michigan Renaissance Festival Photo Contest sponsored by Perry Drugs. Contest photos were taken last fall during the festival's six-week run in Holly.

The annual festival is an authentic recreation of a 16th-century English village with a staff of 700-plus outfitted in period costumes. Besides a king and queen and their court, there are jesters, jousters, magicians, damsels and an assortment of village characters whose job is to keep visitors "in a festive mood," Burkhardt said.

Probelaki, 52, a math teacher at Livonia Franklin High School and Schoolcraft College in Livonia, says part of the festival's fun is getting involved with the Renaissance players.

"The festival characters are enjoyable and they like acting for the crowd," said Probelaki.

who took first place in last year's color contest. "I try very hard to capture a feeling on film so it feels good to win."

His winning black-and-white photo, "Morning Greetings," shows a masked Renaissance player teasing a visitor at the festival's front gate. "Mistress" is a photograph of the king and queen's court.

Lowy, 48, who has his own photography studio in Farmington Hills, has been photographing the Renaissance festival with Probelaki for about six years.

"For us Lowy and Probelaki, the contest is a game and a challenge," said Lowy, also a winner in last year's contest. "It's fun for us to come up with different views of the festival and it's great to be recognized for it."

Contest judges look for unposed shots that show interaction between the Renaissance characters and visitors to the festival, said Steve Haines, one of three Detroit News photographers who judged the entries.

"What wins is a photo with a human touch, one that shows candid interaction between people," he said. "Often, the visitors will follow a Renaissance character that they admire or can identify with and, if you can capture that on film, it makes a great photo."

Winning photographs will be on display through Wednesday, Aug. 12, in the lobby of the Fisher Building, on W. Grand Boulevard, Detroit. Cash prizes of $50 to $150 will be awarded to winners in the black-and-white and color categories on the Green Grove Stage at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15, opening day of the 13th annual Michigan Renaissance Festival.

An entry form for the 1992 photo contest is included in the Playbill available at the festival.

Rain or shine, this year's Michigan Renaissance Festival runs weekends and Labor Day, Aug. 15 through Sept. 27, on Dixie Highway, one mile north of Mt. Holly. Hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Admission at the gate is $10.95 for adults ($9.50 in advance) and $5.95 for children (15 in advance). Children younger than 5 are admitted free.

"Knight Fight:" Photographer Alan Lowy took second place in the black-and-white category of the 1991 photo contest for this action shot, taken in the festival's jousting area.

Meadow Brook art show set

The 16th annual Art at Meadow Brook show will take place 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 15-16.

The juried art exhibit is on the grounds of Meadow Brook Hall at Oakland University, Adams at Walton in Rochester. Parking and admission are free. For information, call Meadow Brook Hall at 370-3140.

Art at Meadow Brook shows works of more than 100 artists from Michigan and out of state. Artists' media include painting, fiber, jewelry, sculpture, glass, photography, wood, graphics and ceramics.

The event is the annual outdoor fair run by members of Creative Council, a women's artist group started at OU 20 years ago.

This show takes place at the courtyard and gardens of Meadow Brook Hall. New gardens have been constructed on the grounds. Tours of the 100-room Dutch home and refreshments will be available for a charge both days.
