

'Tis the season . . .

Holiday tradition: The American Lung Association of Michigan captures the spirit of Christmas with "Bringing Home the Tree," available in packets of 18 cards with foil-lined envelopes for $11.

Yuletide fantasy: Bart Basilico, 10, designed this stylized version of a Christmas tree, available in packets of 20 cards with 21 envelopes for $8 from Leukemia Research Life Inc., which supports research at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

In tune: It's only appropriate that a detail of the Proscenium Arch framing the stage of Orchestra Hall, grace the cover of the card benefiting the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

If you're interested in these and other cards offered by non-profit groups in the Detroit metropolitan area, The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers has compiled books of cards, available for perusal during business hours at our five Observer & Eccentric offices.

Our Livonia office is at 36251 Schoolcraft; in Birmingham at 805 E. Maple; in Plymouth at 744 Wing St.; in Farmington at 21898 Farmington Road, and in Rochester at 1814 Rochester Road.

Many of the organizations offering imprinting, but require early ordering, so don't delay. After all, the holidays will be here sooner than you think.
