Dear Phil:

After reading the Publisher's Auxiliary account of the Observer Newspapers' new plant, I am tempted to ask for a job.

On the other hand, after all these years in government, I would probably be uncomfortable in the presence of all that closely-planned efficiency.

Congratulations on an impressive achievement. The communities you serve have a new cause for pride.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Philip A. Hart

Dear Phil:

Permit me to join the many who are extending hearty congratulations upon the formal dedication of the Observer Newspapers new newspaper and job printing plant in Livonia.

I am sure it is an occasion which you and your fine staff have looked forward to with great anticipation.

The new facility represents a substantial financial investment on the part of your organization. But it also represents an investment in the future--pinned on the belief that the communities you serve so well will continue to grow and flourish.

I am confident that the new plant will better enable the Observer Newspapers to fulfill their collective obligation to serve an informed and concerned citizenry.

With best wishes and my kind regards, I am

Sincerely,

Robert P. Griffin
