

Interiors For People

Just give J. L. Hudson's Contract Division some space and they'll turn it into anything from a newspaper office to a wedding room to a store to a hospital to a showroom to a country club. They've even done interior designs for Great Lakes freighters.

But that's only the beginning of the Hudson's Contract Division's total service. They move from problem solving and space planning to interior design to supplying everything from matches to menus, soaps to signs, railing on the steps to lightbulbs in the sockets... taking care of all details right up 'til the front door opens for business.

Their jobs all over the world include: Lucayan Beach Hotel, Freeport; Sotheby's Beach Hotel; Campus Inn; St. Petersburg Hilton; Marco Island Hotel; and Miller, Ford, G.M. and Chrysler; Beaumont, Harper, Grace and Ben Sayers Hospitals; Lochmoor, Battle Creek and Great Oaks Country Clubs.

And most recently, the Observer newspaper.

And they accomplish all this by a team of eight interior designers and assistants working out of Hudson's Downtown building.
