

Residents document day in the life

CABLE CONNECTION

LARK SAMOUELIAN

The first annual "A Day in the Life" video contest had its live video presentation on Dec. 22 at 7 p.m. There were eight entries from Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills. The entrants produced video programs of no more than 20 minutes in length exemplifying a single day in the city with titles and credits included. The programs were judged by community people: Jan Dolan representing Farmington Hills, Dean and Sue Cobb representing Farmington and Cindy Stewart representing Novi.

The winners of the program were:

- Honorable mentions: Eva Thompson, A Day in the Life of Siegfried of Farmington Hills; Jeffrey Grossman, "A Day in the Life of Jeffrey Grossman"; Gloria Gaines-Hanna, "The Korean Way"; and Guy Morel, "The Farmington Village 25th Anniversary" and "The Grape Harvest".
- Third place: Joe Derek for "Backyard Habitat".
- Second place: Rick Beaman for "Farmington Hills Community Center".
- First place: Pat Fitzpatrick for "Buddy the Dog".

The programs are scheduled for cablecast for Friday, Jan. 8, at 5 p.m. and Jan. 15 at 6 p.m. The contest was sponsored by CAC, the project facilitators were Mark Adler and Joan Lillie. All included look forward to this becoming an annual event. We encourage creativity from one's home. Contest winners used either VHS or 8mm camcorders. Congratulations to all.

When you see these lights...
or hear a siren...

Someone may need your blood to live.

Flashing lights and screaming sirens mean that someone, somewhere, needs your help... by giving blood to someone who needs you.
