Criminal barrister Marc Lakin and wife Kelly Lakin also were partying in the dessert hall. Marc just returned from the Maccabees games in Florida and is enjoying fatherhood.

Arleen & Bill Kingston are ecstatic with the recent video release of "Hollmester." Son Eric stars in the terrifying tale of horror. Eric is now working on a collection of poetry and essays.

Arleen Schwartzberg played "show and tell" with her wonderful "prize" from DuQuet Jewellers (or, I should say, from husband Harvey).

Scott Stern and the Trust entertained guests. The band was launching a major tour of the United States after releasing its recording of "Smoke and Mirrors."

Committee chairmen and chairwomen included Richard Gershenson, Alan Kaplan, Jimmy Lutfy, Janice Cherkasky, Susan Borin, Jan Tilchin, Linda Beltzman, Ellen Rothenberg, Karen Erlich, Marsha Sakwa, Sandy Stark, Larry Miller, Sue Erlich, Linda Friedlaender, Barbara Garland, Yolanda Hladale, Alice Turner, Sherrie Stern and Sheila Schiffer.

Spotted bidding on auction items were David and Hedy Blatt and Harvey and Brenda Superstein.

The fast track

An evening filled with the glamour of high-profile guests and the glimmer of chrome spinning on the turntables makes the Charity Preview for the North American Auto Show a night to remember.

Cheryl Hall in "passion purple" shared tidbits of Mary McFadden's need to play "serious" tennis with a man who plays like Martina, when McFadden will be in town for a charity fund-raiser Monday-

Tuesday, Jan. 25-26, for the Michigan Opera Theatre. Hall made arrangements with Bloomfield Open Hunt tennis pro Don Heth who is also a rep for Rolling Stone magazine.

Joanna McCoy (wife of Roger), was spotted panting over the white Mercedes, while Jim Solwa was hanging out at the Rolls Royce exhibit.

Karen Clark looked tres chic in a basic black tuxedo suit. Lydia Tomzyn stopped traffic in her little black, off-the-shoulder dress with a short tulle skirt from Roz & Sherm, and Pamela Livingston Hardy wore a custom design Giorgio Armani-look jacket with flowing pants.

Livingston Hardy is chairing the women's committee for the Oakland Family Services annual spring luncheon at Forest Lake Country Club on April 30.

Other luminaries included Terry and John Rakolta, Nancy Turner with main squeeze John Plecu, Bill Baer and Wendy Schrader, Rick and Debbie Davis, and Peggy and Travis Parr.

Linda Lopez won the prize for "best hair" with a pin-curl up-do designed by Kelly at Salon Ken-ice-Bashur.

Afterglow parties were abundant. The ITT Automotive Auto-Glow raised $25,000 for the Children's Center.

"We couldn't have been more pleased with the results in our first year," said Timothy Leulotte, president and CEO of ITT automotive, who with wife Cindy co-chaired the event.

Chairman and CEO Siegfried Buschmann of the Budd Co. and wife Rita hosted an after-glow dinner at the Detroit Athletic Club.

"We are excited at the enthusiasm of this year's auto show. This is our 11th year," remarked Siegfried Buschmann.

Three's company: And 1,000 is a crowd, at the Temple Israel "Art of Food and Wine" fund-raiser, chaired by Richard Gershenson (left), Jimmy Lutfy and Alan Kaplan.

Honors of hospice: Anticipating the nine spectacular live auction items up for bid are honorary chairman and chairwoman George (left) and Chris Strombos, Valerie Straith and Rita Siegfried Buschmann, who gather during the cocktail hour.

Symphonic fireworks: Jean Hammerl (left), attorney Ted Lerchen, Park West Gallery owner Albert Scaglione, Anita Malys and Herb Broughton complete plans for Sunday's impromptu pre-glow.

Auto show mania: Actress Linda Lopez and Frank Lopez experience the glitz and glamour of the black tie charity preview for auto show.

Food for thought: "The Art of Food and Wine" sub-committee chairwomen Jan Tilchin (left), Linda Friedlaender, Janice Cherkasky and Susan Borin take time out to sample the cuisine du jour served by more than 40 restaurants.

Singles Impromptu

You may have missed the Birmingham Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra Singles Impromptu Bash on Sunday at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club, but it's not too late to attend this Sunday's preglow powwow at Park West Galleries in Southfield.

The high-profile singles group will gather 5-7 p.m. at Park West to view the wonderful Salvador

Dali exhibit and enjoy wine and cheese before the BBSO concert at Temple Beth El in Bloomfield Township ($15 at the door). No charge for those who attended the BOH singles mingle.

The Symphonic Fireworks conducted by Felix Rosenick will include music of Beethoven, Gershwin, Dvorak, Stravinsky, Rodgers and Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture.

For further information call Jean Hammerl, 795-8193.

Clooney and company

Rosemary Clooney and Michael Feinstein will perform at 2 p.m. Sunday at the George Burns Theatre in Livonia, in a benefit concert for Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

The concert and champagne reception following the concert is the preview benefactor's party for this year 14th annual auction slated for Friday-Saturday, Feb. 19-20. Call Johanna Monaghan at 476-8922 for reservations.

More newlywed news: At Temple Israel's "Art of Food and Wine," Rita and Gary Wasserman tell tales of the upcoming opera ball.

Kingston trio: At food and wine tasting, Arleen Schwartzberg (left) and Arleen Kingston sample food served up by Wendy Kingston.
