

Doctor's love races to kids down under

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

The brain storm of a Bloomfield Township physician is scheduled to reach half way around the world this week to touch youngsters hospitalized near Brisbane, Australia. That's when race car driver Robbie Buhl will visit the Royal Children's Hospital in Queensland as part of "Racing for Kids," a program initiated by pediatric cardiologist Bill Pinsky. "Racing for Kids" is the marriage of two great passions for Pinsky, who is vice president of the Detroit Medical Center and associate dean of the Wayne State University School of Medicine.

"I love working with kids, but I also love car racing," he said. "Racing for Kids" was a natural blend.

The fact that he's at his office at the Detroit Children's Hospital this week — rather than in Brisbane with his buddy Buhl — is an obvious indication pediatric cardiology is foremost in Pinsky's life.

Passion is real

But his passion for race car driving is hardly a Walter Mitty fantasy. In 1989, Pinsky was driving a Formula Ford — the spunky racer so popular on the Grand

Two loves: Besides his family, physician Bill Pinsky has a passion for racing and pediatric cardiology. He blends the two in "Racing for Kids," a program that calls attention to the medical problems of youngsters and raises money for children's hospitals.
