

Giving Kam a hand

Junior weathercaster: Channel 2 weathercaster Kam Carman, a Farmington Hills resident, enlists the aid of Kenbrook Elementary School first-grader Donnie Ljucovic to demonstrate to his classmates how the weather is reported on the news set. The group of 70 Kenbrook first-graders recently toured Channel 2's Southfield studios.

Hills man gets design post

The Comark Group Incorporated, the corporate design unit of Anthony M. Franco Inc. public relations counselors, welcomes Farmington Hills resident Donald E. McLean as a principal of Comark.

Comark president George Sepetya made the announcement in this new position, McLean will manage design projects and supervise accounts while developing new business.

A 20-year veteran of Detroit's design and illustration industry, McLean got his start with Comark founder George Sepetya in 1970 as a designer. Since then, McLean has operated his own art studio, which specialized in illustration and design. Most recently, he was president of A.W. McLean, a graphic design firm in Southfield. McLean serves clients in Atlanta and throughout the Southeast, as well as in Michigan.

"It's great to be working with Don again," said Sepetya. "He is a nationally recognized talent with a wonderful reputation that we will use to serve our clients and enhance our operations."

McLean, who taught at the Center for Creative Studies for 11 years, attended Central Michigan University while working as an apprentice for his dad, Art, who was a well-known graphic artist. McLean and his wife Bonnie have two sons.

"Magnificent job!"

That's what Tracy Anderson of Farmington told us about the response she had from her Observer & Eccentric Classified ad. "I'd advertise again—my car sold immediately," she said.
