

Rotary Foundation to give scholarships

Farmington Rotary Foundation will award James V. Ellis Memorial Scholarships to two Farmington-area high school students at a special Rotary luncheon Tuesday, June 1, at the Mountain Jacks restaurant.

Awardees are Kiran Arora of Farmington High School and Martha Basyi Brown of North Farmington High.

Arora, a graduating senior, has received numerous honors and awards, including Debate Hall of Fame, Academic Hall of Fame, National Honor Society, and Detroit Press Debating Award. She is a member of the varsity soccer team and has volunteered her time to help tutor children and work with the elderly. She will be attending the University of Michigan, pre-med program. She is the daughter of Ram Arora.

Brown, also a senior, is class president. She is a student council member and Homecoming Queen, and received the Daughters of the American Revolution's Good Citizen Award and North Farmington's Leader of the Year Award. She is active in church youth leadership and participates in many volunteer programs. She will attend Brigham Young University. She is the daughter of Warren and Carol Brown.

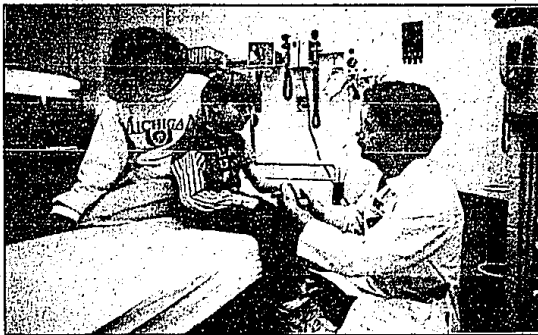

Hills police to sponsor run

The Farmington Hills Police Department will host a benefit 10-kilometer run — called the Cops for Kids Run — at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 5.

The run, which begins and ends at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community College, winds through several subdivisions. Proceeds from the event will be donated to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

New this year is a five-kilometer run/walk and a one-mile fun run. Area businesses are partners with the police department in the effort to raise funds for MDA. Brett Macquardt, a client of MDA, and his mother Terry Macquardt are expected to attend the race.

Last year, about 150 police and civilian runners participated.
