

AAA gears up for bigger local office

AAA Michigan broke ground June 16 for a new building in Farmington Hills that will be the largest full-service branch office statewide serving its members.

"This will truly be a one-stop shopping facility where our members have class-to-see Auto Club services all under one roof," said AAA Michigan Board chairman Charles Allen, who was joined by president Ronald Stefens and Farmington Hills mayor pro tem Lawrence Lichtman at the groundbreaking.

"That includes everything from fee-free travelers checks, discount theme park tickets, TripTiks and Tourbooks, airline and cruise tickets to auto, home, boat and life insurance.

"This branch will also have two drive-through inspection bays where members get faster and more comfortable auto claims service.

"We have had a presence in the Farmington area since 1964 when we opened a branch on Farmington Road and served about 5,000 members," continued Allen. "Membership in the area has grown to the extent that this new branch will serve 39,000 local members."

The nearly half-acre building, at 38761 W. 12 Mile Road, will be designed in the Williamsburg-Colonial style and approximately 60 percent larger than the average Auto Club branch.

The $3.5-million development, situated on four acres, will serve members in Farmington/Farmington Hills, Novi, Commerce Township, Union Lake, Wixom, New Hudson, South Lyon, Milford, Walled Lake, Wolverine Lake and portions of West Bloomfield.

Files from page 1A

But Saks, who characterized the Carlescos as "really nice people," said he had done all he could. The salesman who assured the couple that they could leave the files in the trunk of the '87 is no longer working for Saks, not for any reason having to do with the incident.

"We had someone pull our trash compactor apart and go through it for six hours," Saks said. "We fished about half of it out. We filed a claim with the insurance company but they denied it. I don't know what else I can do."

The Carlescos complained to Marc Hirsch, a customer assistance manager for Oldsmobile in Detroit, but with no luck.

"It's really unfortunate," Hirsch said. "But Oldsmobile has no control over this. This is one of those gray areas."

But the Carlescos are seeing red.

"He (Saks) actually asked me, 'What more do you expect me to do, pay for it myself?'" Doug Carlesco said.

Saks said that the Carlescos did not return for four days to collect the papers and other supplies left in the trunk.

"If these papers were so important, how come they didn't come back right away and get them?" Saks said.

The Carlescos said that although the trunk contained important files, Anna Carlesco was in the process of moving and didn't need most of them right away.
