

Cable commission plugs in with many services

CABLE CONNECTION As the cable industry regulations and structure continue to be jostled about, the local services that are available to you prevail. As a result of the cable franchise in Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills, the Oakland Cable Commission in cooperation with MetroVision provides:

- Franchise Oversight and Contract Administration (ordinance compliance).
- Customer Service Standards — As of Sept. 1, 1993, SWOCC may regulate the FCC customer service obligations of MetroVision.
- Rate regulation — As of Sept. 1, 1993, SWOCC may file with the FCC to regulate the basic service tier — Channels 2-23.
- Ascertainment of Community Needs and Project Planning — Year in and year out there are two committees that are continually reviewing the development of our cities for the opportunities to incorporate cable and telecommunication services. These committees are the Cable Access Committee and the Institutional Network Subcommittee.
- Facility Management of the television studio and personnel.
- Television workshops — monthly to residents, business owners, employees, and members of organizations.
- SWOCC's studio television production — tape delayed and live programming.
- Community Outreach — provide marketing, promotions and advertising shows. We host internship programs for students. We administer grants to local television producers in our franchise area. We are available for public speaking radio and television interviews regarding how television may send your message.

- Coordination of the telecommunication infrastructure, purposes to be sure all participating entities interface with one another — such as: MetroVision with Farmington TV10, Novi High Telecommunication Center, Novi High TV, Farmington Hills Council TV Facility, and Novi Council TV Facility.
- Telecommunication Staff, Education and Organization workshops. We learn and build outside contacts — local, county, state and federal.

Were you to have any questions about the services that we provide, or would like to avail yourself of the services that we provide, please contact Lark Samouelian at the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission, 473-7266.
