harder she'll be to stop."

Kelly Lacoste will start at point guard. She has yet to become an offensive weapon but has the ability to score (65 percent from three-point range).

"She runs our secondary break and makes our decisions," Mantyla said. "We want her to put her skills and her aggressiveness to work and create. We want her to have more freedom and be the coach on the floor."

If starting five isn't impressive enough, Harrison has a strong bench to help. Junior Jenny Mylinski can play wing or post and is Harrison's defensive stopper.

"She is the one player we have who can completely change the direction of the game," Mantyla said. "She's super aggressive. She's also very versatile. She can cover the other team's quickest player or their biggest player. She has no fear."

Senior Rocky Mack will be counted on to supply scoring from the perimeter. Mantyla likes her knowledge of the game and the way she takes care of the ball.

Sophomore Erica Greene (5-10) is recovering from knee surgery and a stress fracture in her right shin. Mantyla said she is just about 100 percent but will start the season on the JV until she gets her confidence back and gets in shape.

"I wouldn't be surprised if she returned to the varsity soon and became one of the top seven players," Mantyla said. "She's banging away with Carey in practice and learning a lot from Carey. She's very rugged and physical for a sophomore and should give us some post defense, rebounding and inside scoring."

Junior Kathy Schneider, the JV's most valuable player the past two seasons, can play post or wing. Also contributing off the bench will be sophomore Kristen Kozlarski at the point and senior Nicholas Howard at the post.

Ready for success

"We're ready to take one more step," Mantyla said. "I expect the team to compete for the division and conference titles. But the league will be tough; it always is. There are always a couple teams from the league that do well in the post season, and we want to be one of those teams."

"The girls have put in great effort. When I started here, we wanted to play AAU ball in the winter and have a strong summer program, and we've been able to do both."

Mantyla does want to see his team play better defense this season.

"What we're committed to now is to become a better defensive team," he said. "When we lost to Novi last year (34-32 in the first round of district play), we realized you can't always count on your offense. I want us to dig in more and fight on defense."

In Mantyla's first season, the Hawks finished 8-14. Harrison improved to 12-9 last season and took fourth in the Western Lakes Activities Association with an 8-3 mark. Part of the reason for the success was the Hawks' improved running game.

"We're going to stay committed to running and run the court when we can," Mantyla said. "In my first season here, we scored 41 points a game and allowed 45. Last year, we began running more and averaged 50 a game while allowing 39. This season, I'd like to give up less than 39 while running more."

Mantyla also hopes the Hawks continue their success off the court. The Hawks were fourth in the Class A last season with a cumulative 3.66 grade point.

Frank Ivezaj intends to bring about a turnaround in the Farmington Hills Harrison boys soccer program.

"This will be a new chapter," according to Ivezaj, the new Harrison coach.

Ivezaj replaces Glenn Breuban, who guided the Hawks for the last seven years. Ivezaj has coached the JV since 1989 and knows the team's recent history, including a 1-12 record last season. Because of his experience in the program, he knows the players and their abilities.

"I know I have a big challenge ahead of me, but I know all the players," Ivezaj said. "As a new coach, I'm trying to introduce new strategies, but it will take time for the team to adjust to a new system."

"But the spirits of the team are high and you'll be surprised if you talk to the players. They are very positive and think they can change things."

The trouble last season was that the opponents controlled the ball in the Harrison side of the field and were putting too much pressure on the defense, according to Ivezaj.

He hopes junior Andrew Dzyngel will help keep the ball out of the Harrison zone. The right forward has the ability to control the ball, make accurate passes and score.

Junior Cary Cronin has made the transition from stopper to midfielder — a move Ivezaj thinks will pay off.

"He has the ability to connect our offensive line with our defensive line," Ivezaj said. "He will distribute the ball, make a lot of crosses and long passes. He has the skills and knowledge to play that position."

The success of the defense will rest on the shoulders — make that the head — of senior Aaron Welles.

"He's our commander and I hope he keeps the pressure off the goalie," Ivezaj said. "He is a good jumper and very good at heading the ball. He will diffuse all the crosses when the other team attacks."

Ivezaj also likes what he sees from Juniors Chris Peresky, Dustin Rose and Danny Blankenship.

Peresky, left midfielder, is a good ball controller and passer, while Blankenship, left forward, is a good crosser. Rose will utilize his speed as a striker.

"Dustin has the speed; he is our engine," Ivezaj said. "If he gets a pass, he can beat anybody. We're trying to work on getting him the ball now."

Junior Jeff McBride will mind the nets. The goalie has good hands and makes good decisions, according to Ivezaj.

Senior forward Marcel Lens, junior stopper Jason Raymon and senior defender Scott Turbio will also contribute on the field this season.

"We should win this season. How many I'm not sure," Ivezaj said. "We have the potential. Our goal this year is to play like a team. You will see a difference this year."

WHAT WORKS FOR HIM, MAY NOT DO FOR YOU

Take care when you compare your arthritis with the joint problems of another person.

You may talk with someone, who like you, has swollen hands or painful knees. That person, like you, may have difficulty arising in the morning, note undue fatigue during the day, and endure constant night because of pain.

However, you cannot conclude that his arthritis is the same as yours, and that the therapy you are using because of what your doctor should "try" on you.

Currently, assuming that individual is what your doctor should "try" on you.

You are like someone with a fat tire. The cause could be a puncture in the tire itself or a defective valve. In both instances what you see is an airless tire low to the ground. The "cure" is quite different for each cause; a puncture requires a patch, a defective valve necessitates a new one.

There are arthritides that look like rheumatoid arthritis but treated with gold or penicillamine, responsible for rheumatoid disease, is wrong for their other conditions. There are joint swellings that look like gout, but are not gout. In such instances, appropriate gout medicine-cocaine - only leads to an upset stomach.

You must talk to other people with arthritis, they are a source of information and advice. However, stop short of comparing cures. Then you are exchanging gossip, not experience.
