

Many sources offer answers to cable questions

LARK SAMOUELIAN
Serves as liaison.

Through all the cable television changes all consumers may expect to receive answers to their questions. If you do not get a timely response, the staff of the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission will be happy to intervene as liaison.

For all technical questions dealing with the cable television signals call MetroVision 563-7300.

For inquiries which have not been answered to your satisfaction at a local level, contact the FCC General Cable Inquiry telephone number 1-202-632-0004. Were you have a complaint to register regarding the new rates you must send the FCC and the cable company and the SWOCC (cable commission) the FCC Complaint Form 329. You may have SWOCC send you the form. Call 473-7266. You may also expect a response within 30 days from the cable company.

Were you to care to have detail of the Community Services provided by SWOCC having resulted from the franchise fee, call 473-7266 to have an information piece sent to you.

The entire jurisdiction is under the Federal Communication Commission ruling. The local franchising authority, SWOCC, must seek rates for certification to regulate the Basic Broadcast Tier Channels 2-23. This authority however, is still under the rules of the federal law. Once certified the local commission will have the right to scrutinize the basic broadcast rates for reasonable pricing of the services. Rates would then be limited to change no more than annually.

If the FCC were not to accept the local authority to regulate cable rates then the FCC would continue to provide the regulation.

Please remember to call us when you have questions at the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission, 473-7266.

His stops include Sarah Fisher, St. Michaels on 10 Mile and Lahser in Southfield, St. Dominic's soup kitchen in Detroit, St. Leo's on Warren and Grand River in Detroit, and four group homes in Farmington and Farmington Hills.

As Arthur Paradis wrote in his letter of nomination to the commission, Durkee has made helping the poor an avocation for almost 60 years.

"The idea of the Diamond award is to recognize what people can do even after they are 75," Pohutsky said. "Age does not have to keep you from contributing."

"There is a great need to help the needy now," Durkee said.
