5,500 Small Blue Gills Planted In Walled Lake

Five thousand five hundred small blue gills were planted in Walled Lake Thursday morning by the Conservation department under the direction of the Exchange Club.

Eleven cans each containing about five hundred fish about an inch long were brought from the Drayton Plains State Hatchery and let loose in the waters of the lake close to some weed beds.

The average girl now gets a scolding from father for wearing so little and one from mother for working so little.

Why it is that people can always be depended upon to do the things that they don't get paid for?

Punishment cannot always be made to fit the crime. Suppose we punished drunken drivers the way they do pedestrians.

Look First to the Foundation

It was in August, ninety-nine years ago, that the first practical steam locomotive in America moved over a permanent railroad track. But its three-mile trial trip was its last—because its weight of seven tons was too great for the company's wooden trestles.

What about your own undertakings, your plans, your ambitions? Are you building a foundation sufficiently substantial to support them, to carry them to ultimate success?

You are if you have a reserve fund here—and see to it that it grows constantly. And you have at the same time the advantage of counsel and cooperation of an influential financial institution.
