HALLOWEEN

The songs of the katy-did has died away. The light of the fire fly has gone out. Night begins to intrude into day. October has come, offering the farewell homage of summer and bringing, in the snap of the air, a hint of winter days to follow. For the youngsters October brings Halloween. To them it is the mystery month witches, black cats and superstitions!

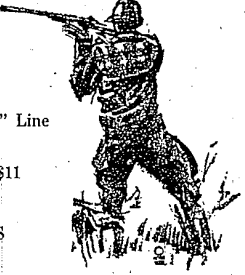

Whether or not you believe in signs teach them now that the sign of prosperity is the Savings Book. Have them save a few pennies each week so that they may form the savings habit.
