

Another View of 'Main Street'

Although there are many older pictures, old residents favor this one of the main street of Farmington, as giving the best idea of how our "Broadway" looked, in "the days way back when—" The photograph was taken from a point on Grand River west of Farmington road. The front of the Owen House may be seen at the right side of the picture. Note the hitching-rails for horses at the left.

The Old

Building Where The Enterprise Was Printed
For Nearly Thirty Years
(Torn Down In 1926)

--And The New

Modern Home Of Farmington's Newspaper Built In 1926 By William N. Miller

