6th DISTRICT SCHOOL NOTES

The children and teachers of our schools are taking this means of cordially inviting the parents to visit us. Work, the children have accomplished and are proud of, becomes doubly dear to them if only father and mother could see and share it with them.

If your child is not doing as well as you could wish, why not come to the teachers and talk it over? They are the ones who will co-operate with you and do all they can in correcting the fault of the child. Perhaps it is something that is not the fault of the child but a misunderstanding somewhere else.

By all means come to your home school and discuss these matters with the one who must not only act as teacher, but mother, also, the greater part of the waking hours of your child. A disinterested person, who has no real interest in your child is not going to be able to help you in these problems.

Parents need have no worry as to what takes place on the playgrounds, which are being carefully supervised.

The fourth and fifth grades are watching with interest the growing of a number of cotton plants. The seeds were given the room by Betty Mitchell.

Monday was the occasion of real rejoicing in Room 2, when the smiling face of Madeline Bramer appeared among her schoolmates again. Madeline had been out some time because of illness in the family.

Pilgrim study is being indulged in this week and some very splendid stories are being handed in and enjoyed.
