

Cable show doesn't go on without team effort

LARK SAMOUELIAN

CABLE CONNECTION

Lately we have been receiving many telephone calls from enthusiastic television viewers. It seems that television programs have inspired the audiences to get new and great ideas for television shows.

When I answer the calls, the first statement that most have been making is "Have I got a great idea for you." Let us rephrase the statement to reflect appropriately the television environment in which we exist, and that would be "Have I got a great idea, and what do I need to do to make it into a television show."

What we do best is to share our resources with you, the television viewer and new enthusiast. We have a host of television technicians, who are very happy to contribute their time and talent to helping you express your idea. One need not fear doing this all alone. Television is always a team effort — as a matter of fact, without the entire team, the show does not go on.

We do look forward to your enthusiastic response and look forward to giving you the opportunity to turn your idea into a television show. If you would like to take the television workshops, call Lisa or Tracy at SWOCC, 473-7205. The next set of workshops will be in January 1994.
