

The Scene from page 1H

Collections in Detroit" at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The background of the exhibition — in the galleries featuring 35 Detroit-area collections produced during 1880-1920 — will provide a turn-of-the-century scene reminiscent of real ballrooms in an era when men still wore white tie and tails to formal gatherings.

Committee chairwomen for Under the Stars are Georgann Henritzy, Connie Jacob and Betty Martin.

Cadillac Motor Division is the major sponsor. In addition Metro Detroit Cadillac Dealers donated a 1994 Cadillac de Ville Convertible. The de Ville debuted Oct. 7 and is the ultimate Cadillac six-passenger front-wheel-drive sedan. Valued at $37,000 the car will be offered via mail-phone auction to 38,000 members of the DIA Founders Society during the weeks leading to the event.

This auction should raise membership. Whoever bids highest for the Cadillac also receives two tickets to Under the Stars XIV.

Birminghamites on the committee are Bonnie Blundin, Doreen Hermelin, Suzanne Hilberry, Richard Kandarian, Mimi Streck and Nancy Yaw.

Bloomfield Hills residents on the committee are Kathy Antonini, Penny Blumenstein, Karen Clark, Dede Feldman, Marilyn Fischer, Catherine Forbes, Christa Fortinberry, Nancy Grosfeld, Marion Handelman, Corrine Lemberg, Carolyn Levin, Meryl Podolsky, Kathy Rines, Aviva Robinson, Maureen Roberts, Yvonne Rogers, Diane Scholnick, Lois Shaovsky and Sylvia Sullivan.

On the committee from West Bloomfield are Linda Hayman, Sandra Knight, Sandy Mueller, Tanya White and Connie Wine-man.

Gala tickets are $300 per person or $400 for patrons which include cocktails, dinner and dancing. Late-night tickets are $75. Call the DIA at 833-7869.

Gamer's Party

Eton Academy recently held an event at St. George's Cultural Center in Bloomfield Hills, chaired by Tommy and Susie Betrus.

The "Gaming Commission" consisted of Mary Van der Tuin and Cecily Bay. A gaming throng joined the live-action Vegas-style casino and entertainment at the Cultural Center.

Among participants were Jan and Patricia Hartmann, John and Peggy Birch, recently of Harbor Springs. Cindy Milner is now handling public relations for Eton Academy.

Autumn splendor

The last two weekends and the upcoming one are the time for autumn color up north in Michigan and right in our area, too.

But we decided we had to make our annual color run to the Harbor Springs area and stayed with former Birmingham resident Barbara Rau.

A former Birmingham couple Charlie and Patsy Crandell now live up north permanently and love the small-town atmosphere, as does Barbara. We had a reunion at the Pier which is customary and spotted yacht Casca docked there. The town is puzzling about the big yacht from Grand Rapids, conjecturing who the owner might be. Anyway is the consensus.

Holocaust Memorial

The ninth anniversary dinner for the Holocaust Memorial is set for Sunday, Oct. 24, at the Westin Hotel in Detroit.

The West Bloomfield center has as this year's theme "The 50th Anniversary of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising." Speaker will be Dr. Yitzhak Arad, director of Yad Vashem, the Holocaust Martyrs' and Heroes' Remembrance Authority in Israel.

3-legged Ginger: Gary Tiscornia (left), executive director, Michigan Humane Society, and Lori Wagner, MHS director of volunteers, flank Ginger, a chow who lost one leg as a puppy.

Call 661-0840 for information and reservations.

Celebration of color

The Hospice of Southeastern Michigan Council is holding "A Celebration of Color." In recognition of the ethnic diversity in the communities they serve and in celebration of autumn color, Saturday, Oct. 23, at the Roostertail in Detroit.

Children's Hospice director is Anne Byrne of Bloomfield Hills. Nadene Schultz is co-chairwoman of the function, which will feature multi-cultural cuisine and entertainment. Call 569-9209 for information.

In September the same organization held a family-oriented event at Upland Farms.

City of Southfield

The 67th Old World Market, the area's largest international festival, returns to the Southfield Civic Center on Friday-Sunday.

Sponsored by the International Institute on Kirby in Detroit and the City of Southfield, it is a metro-area celebration of ethnic food, entertainment, arts and crafts in a bazaar setting that draws thousands of visitors. Tickets are an incredibly low $3, or $7 for the whole family.

Rosemary Bannion, interim director of the International Institute, says more than 25 music and dance groups will perform during the three-day festival.

Las Vegas action: Susie (standing left) and Tom Betrus, who co-chaired Gamer's Party for Eton Academy, look over the scene, which includes Patricia and Jan Hartmann getting ready to play.
