A quilt for Ethloine

SHARON LEMIBUX/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

The happy winner: Ethloine McDonald, a 36-year Farmington resident, proudly shows off the Amish quilt she won in a recent raffle at The Community Center of Farmington-Farmington Hills. Charles Shuler donated the queen size, single-needle Amish quilt to be raffled off in memory of his wife, Rachel, a member of the original cookbook committee.

Aren't you a little old to be playing doctor?

Our Primary Care Physicians can help you arrive at the right diagnosis.

Minor symptoms that you may ignore could be warning signals you should take seriously. Many illnesses can be better controlled with early diagnosis.

The next time you're thinking about self-diagnosing a health problem, call a Botsford Primary Care Physician. Our physicians give you and your family personal care that considers your individual needs. Botsford Primary Care Physicians, trained in a wide range of disciplines, examine you as a whole person. When needed, they can refer you to the proper specialist.

So instead of playing doctor, see a Botsford Primary Care Physician. For information on Botsford Primary Care Physicians in your neighborhood, call (313) 442-7900.
