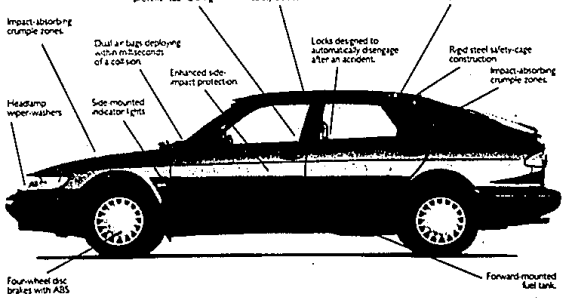
IN A SAAB, EVEN SAFETY NETS HAVE SAFETY NETS.



Saab recognizes that no mechanical device can ever be one-hundred percent fail-safe.

Which is why, from the tip of the self-repairing bumper to the toe of the glare-free taillight, safety is built into the new Saab 900 not once but many times over.

Crumple zones complement a steel safety cage. Complemented, in turn, by three-point safety belts. Complemented, in their turn, by air bags.

And because safety is the ability to avoid accidents, not just withstand them, the Saab 900 comes with an anti-lock braking system that has its own safety net. In the unlikely event the electronics fail, its high-performance disc brakes won't.

Stop by to test-drive the Saab 900. Possibly the most comprehensive collection of life-support systems on the road today.
