

Share ride on Woodward van pool

There are better ways to travel than riding alone. Every week hundreds of area commuters make their daily trip to work or college by carpooling or van pooling.

"Seats are now available on a van traveling into downtown Detroit along the Woodward Avenue corridor from the northern suburbs. Interested commuters may call the RideShare office at 963-RIDE to get more information on the vanpool," said Carol Bagazinski of SEMCOG.

"Most commuters can expect vanpooling to cost them the same amount as they now pay for gasoline alone."

A free service of SEMCOG, RideShare employs a state-of-the-art computer system, matching applicants according to home and work locations and work schedules.

Applicants contact other individuals to work out mutually agreeable travel arrangements. The decision to contact people and whether to remain in the program is up to the individual.

A recent enhancement to the program is the Guaranteed Ride Home, which provides registered applicants with a free taxi ride home if an emergency arises. The participant takes a taxi home, gets a receipt for the fare and submits it to RideShare with a voucher for reimbursement.

To register, call the "hotline" at 963-RIDE.

The Mich/Van program is sponsored by the Michigan Department of Transportation and coordinated by SEMCOG. Vehicles and vanpool assistance are provided by VPSI Inc.

The fully insured vans feature air conditioning, AM-FM stereo, power steering and brakes, and automatic transmission. Riders pay for their seat one month in advance. Fares vary depending on gasoline costs, daily mileage and number of passengers.

Drivers of the vans ride free and enjoy personal use of the vehicles evenings and weekends. In return, they pick up and deliver riders, collect monthly payments, fill the gas tank and take the van in for maintenance.
