It's end of line for area centers

The month of May signals the end of the bowling season, but this year it also brings about the finale of two local bowling cen-bowling centers.

Many of the Avon league bowlers will be able to move to North Hills Lanes in Rochester Hills, which the Langans purchased recently from Bill Srock.

Rochester Hills, which the Langans purchased recently from Bill Srock.

As it always is when a bowling center closes, there are some bowlers left "homeless." Jennifer Pleba, a 12-year-old from Rochester Hills and a student at Van Hoosen Middle School, was "not too sad to ace it closes" because she lives closer too North Hill Lanea, so it won't matter. Her teammates, Jenny Kowalski and Allison Pierce, both 12, took first place in their "Kids Stuff" league and are happy that the whole league is going over to North Hill next season.

The girls love to bowl, especially since they beat the boys for the chempionship. Lots of good bowling took place at Avon through the years; the honor scores were abundant, and the house always tried to put out a good shot for the customers while staying within ABC limits.

The Mid-States Masters

The Mid-States Masters bowled there frequently — three times over the past season. And there were several other local events. The best series was rolled by Steve Schellenbarger with an 865 in the '70s. According to Tom Langan, "It will be kind of tough going from a 48-lane house to only 32, but we'll try to get as many leagues in as we can."

Avon will become a Barnes and Noble book store. For the 32-lane Plymouth Bowl, it is also the end of the line. It had a much longer run: 32 years. Owned by Frank and Sam Moceri and Finley MacQueen, they will try to place many of the Plymouth leagues at their Plara Lanes, also in Plymouth.

Most bowlers considered Plymouth Bowl a rather tough house to score well. There was only one 300 game there last season — by 71-year old Harold McMahan. They had some very line senior league bowlers who considered Plymouth Bowl their second home: the Burroughs League, which was there when the center first opened and will be there when it closes.

It was only last year that Satellite Bowl was wiped out in favor of a Home Depot Store and West Bloomfield Lanes was turned into a Barnes and Noble bookstore.
