CHILDREN SHOULD NOT FORGET THEIR FAITH DURING SUMMER

For most children, school is out now unless they attend classes on a year-round basis or will be going to summer school. Sunday school is also in adjournment now, except that some Houses of Worship conduct Sunday school sessions during the summer and see some of the wonders of God's creation. Whatever they do, parents should make sure that the children don't forget what they learned during the past nine months: including school subjects, discipline and, most of all, their faith. This can be helped by weekly visits to the House of Worship, so that when fall classes roll around the children will have a real head start and remember the lessons of their faith, as well as the blessings they have received from God's love.

No parent ever regretted bringing up his children to love, fear, honor and obey God.
